High court backs cities in low-income housing case

Not required to alter zoning laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communities are not required to alter zoning laws to provide housing for low-income families, the Supreme Court said today.

The court's 5-3 ruling carries far-reaching consequences for many of the nation's suburban areas now closed to blacks and other minorities.

In an opinion written by Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr., the court said predominantly white communities do not have to make certain allowances for integration unless there is proof of purposeful racial discrimination.

The court reversed a decision by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals that the Arlington Heights, Ill., board of trustees was guilty of racial discrimination when it refused to rezone a 15-acre plot of land for a low-income housing project.

"Disproportionate impact is not irrelevant, but it is not the sole touchstone of an invidious racial discrimination," Powell's opinion said.

Today's court's ruling limits how far federal courts can go in helping blacks and other minorities find housing in predominantly white communities. If the circuit court ruling had been allowed to stand, other municipalities could have found themselves facing legal tests about their decisions.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart, Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist concurred in the majority opinion. Justice Byron R. White filed a dissenting opinion, and Justices Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. dissented from a major portion of the majority opinion.

Justice John Paul Stevens took no part in consideration of the case.

The court's majority depended on a 1976 decision that official action will not be held unconstitutional simply because it results in a racially disproportionate impact.

In that ruling, the court said a qualifying test used by the Washington, D.C. police force was valid even though more blacks than whites failed the test.

In the zoning case, the Arlington Heights trustees in 1971 refused to rezone a vacant property surrounded by singlefamily homes to allow construction of a federally subsidized development of 190 town houses.

The Metropolitan Housing Development Corp., a Chicago-based nonprofit organization set up to build low-income housing, sued the board.

"While the village accommodated the housing needs of the affluent whites who could afford the new apartments, it rejected the only applications ever before it for rezoning to accommodate low-and moderate-income housing," the development organization charged.

The circuit court had ruled that Arlington Heights, a Cook County community northwest of Chicago, violated the constitutional equal protection rights of minorities.

The community's board of trustees argued that the lower court's decision would "give special privileges with respect to housing and zoning to low-income persons, regardless of race."

It argued there is no constitutional ban on discrimination for economic reasons.

Deep freeze grips East, Midwest

FIREMEN HELPLESS Firemen stand with a limp hose at their feet at left, while the X-Tyal Company, which manufactured rubber products, throws flames from all five floors on Main Street in Philmont, N.Y. Monday night. The fire spread to scores of residences and businesses. A blinding snowstrom and freezing temperatures hampered more than 200 firemen.

46 storm-related deaths reported

From Wire Services

Midwesterners suffering from Monday's massive snowstorm today were greeted by temperatures much lower than Alaska's. The toll of dead in the cold and snow soared and shortages of natural gas and fuel oil plagued ice-locked communities.

The weather was blamed, at least in part, for 46 deaths across the Midwest and East. Illinois counted 12, New England 9, Missouri, Indiana and Michigan 7 each, New York 3 and Iowa 1.

Officials in Detroit said at least seven persons suffered heart attacks in their city shoveling out from 6½ inches of snow that fell Monday.

Chicago reported six inches of snow, with Boston, Cincinnati and Dayton, Ohio, New York City, Louisville, Ky., and Buffalo and Albany N.Y., all reporting at least 2 inches of snow and as much as a foot in some sections.

The National Weather Service gave no real hope of relief — predicting only a "slight warming trend" — and advised: "Keep those winter woolies handy."

Dozens of record low temperatures greeted midland residents as they went to work. The mercury dropped to 35 below zero in Pequot Lakes, Minn., 20 below zero in southern Indiana and 24 below at Fredericktown in the Missouri Ozarks.

In contrast, temperatures were in the relatively balmy 30s along the Alaskan coast and above zero at interior Alaska reporting points.

Frozen sprinkler heads broke in the Hennepin County Government Center in Minneapolis — where the mercury hit 31 below — and created a skating rink in a 60-foot hallway where cold air came in through an expansion joint. Workers had to chip ice from the floor.

Utility companies in several midwestern and Plains states curtailed natural gas supplies — principally to schools, industries and businesses — and asked residential customers to set thermostats below normal. Spokesmen said people responded well and helped ease the shortage.

In Iowa, where temperatures hit 26 below at Waterloo and 24 below at Mason City, fuel oil suppliers reported some jobbers have been temporarily running out of fuel.

"The demand is just outstripping the supply even though we're making it just as fast as we can," Robert Uttley of Amoco Oil Co.'s Standard Oil Division said. "If this weather doesn't break, boy, I just don't know."

The Tennessee Valley Authority appealed to consumers to cut their electricity usage. It said a record 21.1 million kilowatt peak usage Monday left it with "zero reserve."

Chicago's Jan. 11 low temperature record of 11 below, set in 1888, was tied today, and the Chicago Sun-Times punished its readers with the front page headline: "It's 82 in Miami."

But the chill today extended even to Florida, where temperatures went below the freezing mark in the central citrus belt. Winds helped keep frost from forming and no damage was reported.

In Monday's storm, ships foundered, inaugural parades were canceled, government and industry ground to a halt in some states and scores of thousands of children had a holiday from school.

Hundreds of schools in several states remained closed today.

In Kansas and Missouri officials blamed the weather for the deaths of at least seven persons, most of them elderly.

Residents flee as fire engulfs town

PHILMONT, N.Y. (AP) — All 1,300 residents were evacuated as "near-blizzard conditions" slowed firemen's efforts to battle an overnight blaze that spread rapidly from a rubber factory in this old mill town.

No serious injuries were reported, but the fire and the explosion that preceded it destroyed the factory, which was to have become the town's chief employer.

Many of the residents sought safety in a nursing home on a hill above the village as winds whipped the flames through half the community, the Columbia County Fire Dispatcher said.

As many as 11 different fires were reported at one time, fire officials said. Besides the factory, two apartment buildings, two stores and a barbershop were gutted.

About 200 firemen from 20 surrounding units had the fires under control after six hours in temperatures below 20 degrees.

The four-story 19th century brick mill building that housed the factory still smoldered early today, casting a haze over the entire town, which is located in hilly terrain about 30 miles southeast of Albany, near the Massachusetts and Connecticut borders.

Firemen, whose arrival was delayed by snow-and ice-covered roads after the first alarm went out about 7:47 p.m., had to chip their hoses out from under 8 to 10 inches of ice that accumulated over them as they fought the flames.

Upon returning to the firehouse, many had to be literally chiseled out of their coats. One fireman had 3-inch-long icicles in his beard.

French court releases PLO leader

PARIS (AP) — A French court today freed a Palestinian who allegedly commanded the slaying of Israeli athletes at the 1972 Munich Olympic Games. France had been under heavy pressure from its Arab friends to release him.

In ordering Abu Daoud freed, the court ruled that requests from West Germany and Israel to hold him for possible extradition were unacceptable.

The Palestine Liberation Organization office in Paris issued a brief statement "welcoming the attitude of French justice." It said that "everyone sees that someone wished to harm the good relations between the PLO and France."

His release was expected to bring protests from Israel and possibly France's European partners, who recently concluded a convention against terrorism.

Daoud was arrested Friday night in Paris where he had come as part of an official Palestine Liberation Organization delegation to attend the funeral of a Palestinian activist shot down in the street last week by unknown assassins.

The court mentioned no limitations on Daoud's freedom when ordering him released.

Israel to recall its ambassador

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel announced today it would recall its ambassador to France to underline its outrage over the release of Abu Daoud, the Palestinian suspected of planning the 1972 Olympic Games massacre of Israeli athletes.

1,600 Pomona homes darkened by cable failure

Approximately 1,600 Pomona homes were without electric power for seven hours Monday night due to an underground cable failure at a substation.

Southern California Edison Co. officials said they do not yet know the cause of failure of the 4-KV circuit which affected power in the area between Dudley Avenue, Roselawn Avenue, Mission Boulevard and Phillips Boulevard from 7 p.m. until 2 a.m.

Ontario to Oxnard at 110 miles per hour

3 youths held after wild freeway chase

By TONY AULT
PB Staff Writer

A 105-mile police pursuit from Ontario at speeds in excess of 110 miles per hour ended in Oxnard an hour later with the arrest of three juveniles suspected of stealing a tank of gas from a service station early this morning.

The driver was identified by authorities as a 15-year-old from Arcadia. The passengers, ages 16 and 17, are from Pomona, officers said.

Miraculously, the 30 police vehicles involved in the pursuit reported no accidents in the harrowing, hour-long chase on the busy San Bernardino and Santa Monica freeways to the Pacific Coast Highway in Oxnard.

During the chase, police officers and sheriff's deputies reported the juveniles attempted to lose officers by flashing a spotlight in their eyes, slamming on the brakes of their vehicle and side-swiping other police units.

When the juveniles' car stalled on the Pacific Coast Highway in Oxnard, police surrounded the suspects and placed them under arrest.

Officers said that the driver of the vehicle attempted to strike one of the officers at the time of the arrest and was forceably subdued.

The injured driver was treated at an Oxnard hospital for face and nose injuries and then, with his two passengers, was transported back to the Ontario Police Department jail.

This morning, the three were awaiting disposition on numerous traffic violations, assault on police officers and other infractions by juvenile authorities.

Police said the chase began about 12:52 a.m. today when an attendant at the Union 76 Service Station at 1425 E. Fourth St., Ontario, reported that three youths left without paying for a tank of gasoline.

Ontario police officers Jim Anderson and Steve Smith spotted the vehicle moments later westbound on Fourth Street.

They went in pursuit.

Officer Bill Harbottle joined Anderson and Smith as the pursuit proceeded northbound on Euclid Avenue to the westbound San Bernardino Freeway.

When the officers saw the suspect vehicle was not going to stop, they radioed ahead for assistance from Montclair and Pomona police and the California Highway Patrol. When attempts by the valley officers failed to halt the suspect's vehicle, other police agencies along the freeway to Los Angeles were alerted.

By the time the pursuit reached the Santa Monica Freeway more than half a dozen police agencies and more than 20 cars were involved.

Police said that during this time the suspects tried every means to lose the officers.

Officers said a passenger in the vehicle was flashing a spotlight into the eyes of the officers in the police vehicles behind. When that failed the driver slammed on the brakes hoping to cause the police cars behind to crash.

Finally the suspects tried to sideswipe several police units on the Pacific Coast Highway but failed. In just a little more than an hour later, about 2 a.m., the car stalled and police closed in.

Juvenile court proceedings prohibit police agencies from releasing the names of juveniles suspected of crimes.

SINATRA BODY RETURNED HOME

The remains of four plane crash victims including the mother of singer Frank Sinatra were taken from two military helicopters and placed into two hearsts at the Palm Springs airport Monday after they were brought down from a nearby mountain where they were killed.

Sinatra plane crash probe gets under way

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Investigators say it will take at least two months to discover the cause of the plane crash that killed Natalie "Dolly" Sinatra, mother of singer Frank Sinatra, and three other persons.

Recovery teams on Monday brought the four bodies down from rugged, snow-covered Mt. San Gorgonio where the Lear jet crashed shortly after takeoff last Thursday.

Families of the victims were at Palm Springs airport when the plane carrrying the remains arrived.

Others killed were identified as the pilot, Donald J. Weier, 36, and co-pilot, Jerold Foley, 43, both of Las Vegas, and Anne Carbone of Cliffside Park, N.J., a friend of the 82-year-old Mrs. Sinatra. The two women were flying to Las Vegas for Sinatra's opening at a hotel.

Officials from the Federal Aviation Administration and the National Transportation Safety Board said the plane was clearly off course in darkened and snowy skies when it crashed into the side of the mountain about 200 feet below a 10,000-foot ridge.

A spokesman said the plane did not make a scheduled right turn after takeoff and instead of going northeast, headed northwest into the mountain.

The twin-engine aircraft, owned by Jet Avia Inc., of Las Vegas, reportedly was going more than 350 miles per hour when it hit the mountain, shearing off its tail and wings on impact.

Investigators said they will listen to taped exchanges between the pilot and the Palmdale air traffic control center, will study results of autopsies on the victims, and will examine the jet's engine.

It took most of the day Monday to recover the bodies.

Brown's plan for state budget displeases many

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s proposed state budget apparently has something to displease just about everyone.

Republican leaders say a 14 per cent increase in state spending is too much, but legislators of both parties say Brown should spend more on property tax relief than the $480 million he proposes.

State employes say a proposed 5 per cent pay raise "stinks." State college teachers say they're "outraged" at a 2.2 per cent raise offer.

Doctors want more money for Medi-Cal reimbursements, and teachers want more for schools. And the Prisoners Union, which last week praised Brown for opposing the death penalty, is upset at him for proposing more prison construction.

Neither Democrats nor Republicans seemed eager to embrace the $15.2-billion spending plan for 1977-78 that Brown presented Monday.

The legislature will scrutinize it and probably add and subtract many millions of dollars before returning the budget to the Democratic governor, who will make final cuts before signing it into law by July 1.

Most upsetting of all to some of the interest groups is the fact that Brown's budget, though its total and $1.9-billion dollar increase are records, would leave nearly $900 million unspent.

"The thing that's really outrageous is that there is a big budget surplus," said William Craib, president of the 110,000-member California State Employes Association.

He said Brown's pay package, the smallest raise offered to state employes in six years, "is below our lowest expectations."

"It stinks," added CSEA spokesman Rich Martin.

Yoshimura trial may go to jury today

OAKLAND (AP) — With Wendy Yoshimura's defense jolted by the elimination of her own testimony, the weapons possession trial of Patricia Hearst's underground companion could be in the hands of the jury within hours.

Closing arguments by prosecutor Jeff Horner and defense attorney James Larson are set for today and the case, which began Oct. 18, is expected to go to the jury by day's end.

Alameda County Superior Court Judge Martin Pulich said he would rule on a prosecution motion to strike the testimony of Miss Yoshimura's father, Frank. Pulich stunned the defense when he struck the defendant's testimony Thursday.

After Horner successfully argued for the striking of Miss Yoshimura's testimony, he moved to eliminate that of the father as "no longer relevant."

The defense was stripped of its key testimony and star witness when Miss Yoshimura refused to answer questions about her 3½-year life on the run with Miss Hearst and other fugitives.

She denied having any knowledge of the contents of a garage police raid March 1972, although she admitted renting it several months earlier using an assumed name. Her boyfriend, William Brandt, was arrested and police uncovered a cache of weapons and explosives.

Shortly after the raid, she dropped out of sight. She read an emotional but brief statement to her eight-woman, four-man jury last week, saying she would not turn against those who helped her in the underground because she fled out of fear of the police and was grateful.

Miss Yoshimura refused to answer questions by Horner on cross-examination and was cited on contempt of court charges five times. Horner never asked her any questions about the charges for which she is on trial, basing his interrogation solely on her underground activities.

At Horner's request, the judge ordered her to step down from the witness stand and directed the jury to disregard her testimony altogether.

Contract talks in A.L. progressing

By CONRAD CASLER
PB Correspondent

Union contract negotiations between Alta Loma Elementary School District teachers and trustees should be complete within eight weeks, Supt. Floyd Stork said.

Following Monday night's meeting at Alta Loma Junior High School, Stork said contract talks are progressing slowly but well and appear to be nearing settlement.

Settlement will be almost eight months after the July 1, 1976 deadline. Delay this year was caused by the new Rodda Act which forced all teachers to become union members and transformed school board-teacher contract talks into union-type collective bargaining negotiations.

Alta Loma's tardiness in completing contract talks is not unique in San Bernardino County's west end nor Los Angeles County's east end where virtually all school boards and teachers are facing the same dilemma.

Contracts for the 1977-78 school year are expected to proceed much faster after this year's initial ground work is laid.

In other action, trustees heard Stork state that a school advisory committee to be named late this month or early in February to study the possibility of forming a year-round school program, may be in for rough sledding.

Volunteers now are being solicited to serve on the committee, Stork said. Already two residents who moved from Chino to escape that district's controversial year-round plan, have volunteered and let it be known they will oppose any such plan in Alta Loma, Stork said.

TO HONOR A TEACHER

A 4-by-5-foot plaque in memory of Sumner Elementary School teacher Polly Leonhardt, killed in a bicycle-car accident in January 1976, will be dedicated Wednesday night. Studying the symbolism of the plaque made by Riverside artist Florence Leighton are, from left, Dana Johnson and Mark Souther, former students of Miss Leonhardt, and Sumner Principal Gyle Tague. All three will participate in the special dedicatory program.

Pomona man had a heart attack

A Pomona man, found dead Thursday morning at the so-called Five Points area of the city, died as the result of a heart attack, police said today.

The victim was Avery Barton Garner, 58, who lived at the Kellogg Valley Inn, 2180 W. Valley Blvd.

An autopsy performed by coroner's physicians revealed the cause of death Monday, according to Detective Elias Valdez. Earlier it was suspected that Garner may have been struck on the head and robbed of $25 he had been given earlier that day.

The case was handled as a homicide until the autopsy result was revealed.

The victim was found lying on the sidewalk at Holt Avenue and Ganesha Boulevard.

Expect confirmation of all as nominee hearings open

WASHINGTON (AP) — There may be a few tough questions waiting for some of President-elect Carter's Cabinet nominees, but all are expected to win Senate confirmation.

Senate committees opened hearings today on four of Carter's nominees to Cabinet posts and on Charles L. Schultze, tapped for the Cabinet-level job of heading the Council of Economic Advisers.

Testifying on Capitol Hill were Griffin B. Bell, nominated for attorney general; Harold Brown, nominated for defense secretary; Cyrus R. Vance, nominated for secretary of state, and Bob Bergland, nominated for secretary of agriculture.

Of the four Cabinet nominees, Bell and Brown were the two most likely to face tough questions.

Vance pledged to make concern for human rights a fundamental part of U.S. foreign policy.

"We must have policies based on fundamental values," Vance told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "We must stand for human rights — without intervention" in other nations' affairs.

Vance stressed a commitment to maintaining peace and to conducting an open foreign policy. "All that can be disclosed in open session shall be disclosed," he promised.

Bergland told the Senate Agriculture Committee that he favors development of a global strategy for the world's food needs, with restraints if necessary on U.S. food sales abroad.

Bergland said he has discussed with Carter, Vance and Treasury secretary-designate Michael Blumenthal "the need to involve Agriculture in the highest parts of govenment and the need for the development of a global strategy for the world's food needs."

Asked by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., if the Carter administration would put embargoes on food exports, Bergland avoided the use of the word embargo but said, "we need to use restraints. We have gone through devastating droughts in Minnesota last year, for instance, and if this should spread to other states we could be in trouble."

Bell, an Atlanta lawyer, is a one-time federal judge, longtime Carter friend and so far the most controversial of Carter's nominees.

The Senate Judiciary Committee scheduled hearings on Bell that could last several days. And while a

Memorial program scheduled for former Claremont teacher

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Claremont school district staff members, students and parents will participate in a memorial program for former teacher Polly Leonhardt Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Sumner Elementary School.

Miss Leonhardt died of injuries suffered when struck by a car while she was riding a bicycle with a friend last January, 1976.

Special invitations have been sent to the more than 300 persons who contributed to a Polly Leonhardt Memorial Fund, which has paid for a vitreous glass fused onto copper plaque which will be dedicated in the school multi-purpose room during the program.

The 4-by-5-foot plague was designed by a committee of Sumner teachers. Riverside artist Florence Leighton was commissioned to make it.

The Rev. Keith Korstjens of the First Baptist Church of Pomona will give the invocation at the program. Testimonials will be given by two parents, Bob Garnet and Mrs. Harold Hargraves. Two former students of the fourth-grade teacher, Alicia Keith, now a sixth-grader, and Hadley Johnson, an El Roble student, will recall happy days learning under the tutelage of Miss Leonhardt.

Mrs. Mark Souther, Sumner teacher, will describe the symbolism of the plaque with its Sumner oak, a sapling, and acorns.

Mrs. Souther will explain that the oak represents Sumner School, the acorns its students, and the sapling Sumner's pupils.

A fallen acorn with rays extended outward from it represents the departed teacher, Mrs. Souther will say.

Former students, directed by Joe Moore, will sing "Dear Father."

Sumner Principal Gyle Tague will recall his meeting Miss Leonhardt while she was still a senior at Claremont High and he was at Condit School.

"She was such an outstanding student that she had time to volunteer as a teacher aide, which was rare at that time," Tague said.

He explained that while she was earning her teaching credential at La Verne College, Miss Leonhardt was a student teacher at Sumner School.

Miss Leonhardt joined the staff at Sumner in September 1966, and became a great favorite among the students, Tague said.

"She was a creative, artistic person," Tague said. "The staff depended on her and Mrs. Souther as artists."

Tague recalled that one of Polly's Christmas scenes was accepted for an American Field Service holiday card.

"Miss Leonhardt was highly respected. She taught by example," Tague concluded.

Valley crime

Two nabbed in holdup

A Pomona man was one of two suspects arrested early today in connection with the robbery and beating in La Puente of a service station employe.

The holdup occurred at the Arco station at Hacienda Boulevard and Francisquito Avenue shortly after 2. The suspects were arrested about two miles away a few minutes later.

Sheriff's deputies said the victim, Melvin Brukett, 67, was forced to surrender a small amount of cash and then was beaten by two men. As the result of descriptions of the men and their car given deputies by Brukett and a witness, the two suspects were seized. They were identified as Paul W. Morales, 21, of Pomona, and Luciano M. Ortega, 23, of El Monte. All the money stolen in the robbery was recovered, deputies said.

Bank robber gets away

A lone robber escaped with an unrevealed amount of money late Monday morning in the holdup of the Home Bank at 2040 S. Hacienda Blvd. in Hacienda Heights.

Sheriff's investigators said the man, described as a Latin about 25 years old, gestured as if he had a pistol in his pocket, told a 20-year-old female teller to give him money and ordered her not to "push any buttons."

The robber had black hair and brown eyes, was about 5 feet 7 and weighed 150 pounds. He wore a denim jacket and dark trousers.

Escapes from courthouse

A suspected narcotics addict escaped from police early Monday afternoon while being taken for arraignment in Pomona Municipal Court.

The man was identified as Miguel Hernandez, 31, of Pomona.

Hernandez and another man were arrested Sunday afternoon on a charge of being under the influence of narcotics. He and the other man were being escorted to the lockup in the courthouse by a policeman when Hernandez suddenly ran past the officer and out a south door of the building.

A search of the area by police and sheriff's deputies failed to turn up the escapee. Police reported that he has a $20-a-day heroin habit.

$3,350 in antiques stolen

An Ontario man reported that burglars broke into his home in the 1000 block of Euclid Avenue sometime Friday or Saturday and made off with several pieces of antique furniture valued at $3,350.

Police said the burglars took an antique round oak table, six matching chairs and an antique brass bed from the residence.

The gas shortage—how did it happen?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Energy Administration officials are reworking their charts and tables to account for the severe natural gas curtailments that have struck six states in America's midsection and one on its eastern seaboard.

None of the six midwestern states was on the list the FEA published in November of states which would suffer most in the event that unsually low temperatures caused heavy demand on natural gas supplies.

Nonetheless, businesses and schools in parts of Ohio, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska are faced with shutdowns. Gas suppliers in North Carolina are taking emergency measures to supply their high priority customers.

North Carolina has had gas supply problems for several years, and its current shortage was not unanticipated.

Except in one small Missouri town, gas supplies appeared adequate to heat residential buildings, which have the highest priority when gas supplies are limited.

Polo, Mo. population 438, virtually ran out of gas Monday. Residents were asked to go to a nearby school which is heated with propane. Its supply depended on nearby wells, which gave out when demand peaked during a weekend of sub-zero temperatures.

The Gas Service Co., serving parts of Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska, asked customers to lower their thermostats "as low as they can stand it." Schools in metropolitan Kansas City were closed. In Wichita, pupils bundled up as classroom temperatures dropped to the 50s.

In Kansas City, a couple died from a fire that apparently started in a electric heater they had on to supplement their gas heat.

Schools in many North Texas communities were closed, and Wichita Falls was suffering a 100 per cent curtailment to schools and businesses, apparently because it is on an interstate pipeline, rather than an intrastate pipeline.

A spokesman for Lone Star Gas Co. said gas producers were reluctant to sell to interstate pipelines, in which the federal government controls prices, if they could sell on intrastate lines, where there is no regulation. There was plenty of demand for gas Monday throughout Texas's frigid intrastate pipeline region.

In Ohio, gas distribution companies said they anticipated that curtailments would soon force the closing of factories and businesses that depend on gas.

In North Carolina, distributors imposed partial curtailments on businesses and began petitioning for special permission from the Federal Power Commission to buy emergency gas supplies at intrastate prices.

Graveyard shift to ease power supply may start a trend

KOHLER, Wis. (AP) — There are a couple of hundred new night people here, leaving the house as the kids go to bed and coming home at dawn. They are the new night people of an energy-conscious age, uncertain whether they are victims or beneficiaries.

"I'll have to wait for the fishing season before I know for sure," said one.

About 225 foundry workers at the Kohler Co.'s main plant began a "graveyard" shift last week, working from 10 p.m. to dawn because power for electric furnaces is easier to supply and less expensive to use during those hours.

Public utilities around the nation are hoping it's part of a trend. They are inviting industries to shift some of their operations to night hours, when the demand on utility generators slacks off.

The idea is to ease the threat of overloads during hours of peak demand and to relax the need to build fuel-consuming generators.

To encourage the program, scores of public service commissions have ordered utilities to make it more attractive by providing participating businesses with reduced night rates.

The Kohler Co., with $10 million worth of electric furnaces producing iron for engine blocks and bathroom appliances, expects to save $420,000 to $480,000 this year on its electric bill. It is paying $26,000 in incentive wages to employes who are assigned to the new shift.

Most of the workers haven't decided whether it's worth it.

Dan Polster, 20, a bachelor, said, "It won't help being displeased, at least not yet. But I'm not sure about those guys who are married and have families."

Clarence Bergin, 54, said his wife "didn't like it too well."

Candy Reysen, 19, pony tails poking from beneath her helmet, said, "It will take some time getting used to."

David Arenz, 24, thinks "the third shift is better. You get out during the day and have all day and half the night free."

Thomas Wagner, 23, supervisor in the molding department, said he foresees being able to spend more time with his children and with his pastimes — including fishing.

Charles Conrardy Jr., president of United Auto Workers Local 833, said the electric company's "time of day pricing" may require labor representatives to demand higher wage differentials for night work.

Especially "in the case of younger employes, they usually don't like to be working anywhere at that time," Conrardy said.

Brown's tax relief plan hit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr.'s property tax relief plan was denounced as "half-baked" and "oversimplified" by some lawmakers when it was unveiled before an Assembly Committee.

But the committee chairman said it had possibilities.

"It's not as all-encompassing as I hoped it would be," Assemblyman Willie Brown said Monday after his Revenue and Taxation Committee was briefed on the proposal by a Department of Finance expert.

"But I think it has possibilities for integration into a workable program."

The plan, outlined in the governor's proposed $15.2-billion 1977-78 state budget, would target aid to about half of the California's 3.8 million homeowners, the ones he says need it the most.

Under it, the state would pay 75 per cent of any property tax that exceeded a certain percentage of a family's income.

Families making $10,000 or less would get a rebate if property taxes exceeded three per cent of their income. For families making more than $30,000, the figure would be five per cent.

State payments would be limited to a maximum of $700, and homeowners making more than a set amount would not be covered.

The property relief portion of the plan is also tied to long-range measures designed to limit local government expenditures and maintain a balance between portions of taxes paid by owners of different types of property.

Brown also proposes rebates of $15 to $288 a year for up to 416,000 elderly renters.

But the plan provides no general renter relief, and that sparked some of the criticism during Monday's hearing.

"Up to 40 per cent of the property taxpayers are renters," Assemblyman Floyd Mori, D-Pleasanton, told Cliff Allenby, the Department of Finance's program budget manager.

"And yet you provide no mechanism so that renters can take advantage of any property tax relief at all. They probably have the largest amount of need in terms of income," added Mori, who called the plan "half-baked."

Allenby said one aspect of the long-range plan, a freeze on proportions of property taxes paid by single-family, multipleunit residential and business property, could provide some renter relief.

That's because values of residential property, especially single family property, are increasing faster than business property, he said.

But he said the administration had not been able to come up with an effective program to funnel relief to renters, who sometimes find their rent relief checks eaten up by rent increases.

DANCES FOR KISSINGER

Henry Kissinger, left. Addressing the gathering, Kissinger said the Carter administration would inherit "a nation recovered."

Claudine weeps at details of killing

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — Weeping with her head in her hands as prosecutors breezed into their case against her, Claudine Longet heard herself described as a confused, "ringy" woman, driven to talk about her lover's death almost from the instant she shot him.

"She repeated, 'I shot him. I didn't mean to. It was an accident,'" said former sheriff's deputy George Ackerman as testimony got under way in this Rocky Mountain ski village Monday. "She was talking to herself. She was upset."

Prosecutors said they hoped to close their case against the ex-showgirl and former wife of singer Andy Williams with a handful of witnesses today after calling 11 persons to the stand Monday.

In his opening statement, Deputy Dist. Atty. Ashley Anderson said Miss Longet "raised the gun, pointed it at (professional skier Vladimir) Spider Sabich, jokingly said 'bang-bang', at which point Spider Sabich fell to the floor, dying."

As she heard details of Sabich's death, Miss Longet, 35, broke down twice. Once, she buried her face in her hands and cried several minutes before becoming composed again.

The first day's only surprise was provided by the security chief for the exclusive subdivision where Miss Longet lived for two years with Sabich, a 31-year-old professional skier.

Roy Griffith said that as he arrived at Sabich's $250,000 mountainside home, he warned a Pitkin County sheriff's officer about Miss Longet: "Now watch it, this gal is ringy today."

Neither the defense nor the prosecution asked Griffth to define "ringy." Anderson told reporters, "Let the jurors decide."

Griffith described his entry into the home. "All at once, Miss Longet appeared in the hallway," he said. "She was holding her hand to her chest, and for an instant, I thought she had been shot . .. I said, 'Claudine, who shot who?' and she said, 'I shot Spider.'"

If convicted of the reckless manslaughter charge, Miss Longet could receive a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $30,000 fine. She contends Sabich was teaching her to use the pistol before going out of town when the gun fired accidentally.

Woman arraigned in exorcism death of her daughter, 21

MT. HOLLY, N.J. (AP) — Crying "Hallelujah" and appealing for God's help, Inez Council was arraigned in the death of her 21-year-old daughter, who authorities say was smothered by a turpentine-soaked cloth prescribed by a "root doctor" to rid her of demons.

After saying she understood the manslaughter charge against her, Mrs. Council, of Brooklyn, N.Y., was taken to jail Monday. Asst. Burlington County Prosecutor Thomas McCormick said he would ask for $25,000 bail and psychiatric treatment for her after she arranged for an attorney.

At one point in the short proceeding, Mrs. Council appeared to be falling over. As she was led out of the courtroom clutching a formal copy of the charges, she said, "This paper needs to be changed. It is wrong."

Authorities gave the following account of her daughter's death:

Catherine Council, a student from Brooklyn who had a history of seizures and has spent time in a psychiatric ward, died Sunday night as she, her mother and three companions drove back on the New Jersey turnpike from a visit to a Monks Corner, S.C., faith healer.

Miss Council apparently had a seizure during the trip and tried to jump out of the car. Her hands and feet were bound to prevent her from kicking the driver and a scarf soaked in turpentine and ammonia was placed over her face to prevent her from spitting.

The driver stopped at a turnpike service center to ask for medical help and the young woman was taken to a hospital where she was prounounced dead.

Police said the cloth had been prescribed by the root doctor as a cure, along with a brown medicine. They also said he had told Miss Council's mother to shield her from the moon, because it could harm her in some way.

"They said she was possessed by demons and this treatment was supposed to keep away the demons," Detective Gene Morse said.

The three others in the car were released on bail as material witnesses. They are: Thomas Williams, 63; his daughter, Joyce Brown, 30, and Tressy Curry, 24, all of Brooklyn.

In New York, Inez Council's mother, Daisy Curry, said her daughter "wouldn't do anything like this."

Surrounded by other family members in their neat, slightly dilapidated house in the Bushwick section of Brooklyn, Mrs. Curry said of her daughter and granddaughter: "They had a very good relationship. Catherine was the closest thing Inez had."

Bills would save antismog program

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A major Southern California antismog program, threatened by Los Angeles County's refusal to take part, would be kept afloat by the state under newly proposed legislation.

One bill, by Assemblyman Jerry Lewis, R-Highland, would lend $2 million to the program. Another, by Sen. Nate Holden, D-Culver City, would give it $2.4 million outright.

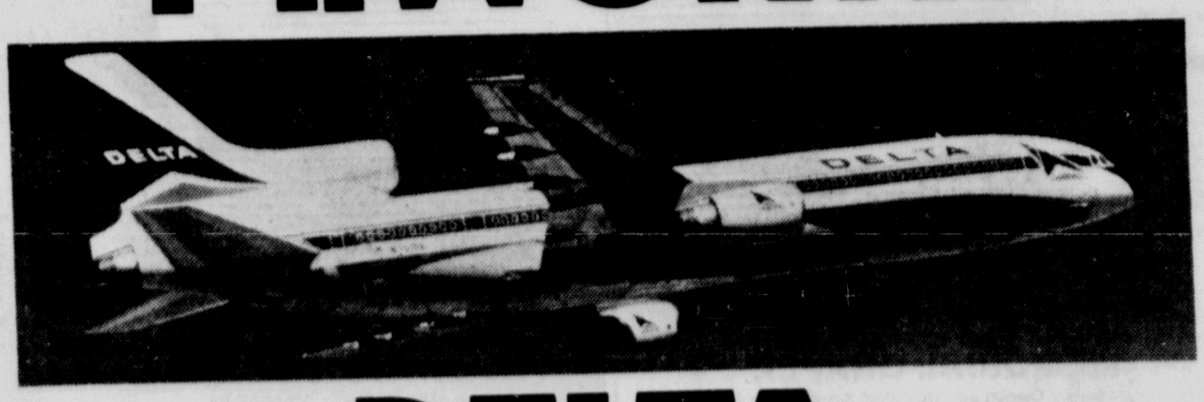

Both bills stem from Los Angeles County's refusal to pay $2.6 million to support the new, four-county South Coast Air Quality Management District, replacing the former voluntary district.

Watson must answer—court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ruled that Los Angles county assessor Philip Watson must answer questions from supervisors investigating the county's assessment practices.

"It's not only the right but the duty of the Board of Supervisors to keep in touch with the various activities of government," Judge Walter Evans ruled Monday.

Wilbur Lincoln Lapp of 3530 Damien Ave., La Verne, died Monday in Foothill Presbyterian Hospital, Glendora, after a long illness.

Mr. Lapp was born in Cambridge, Neb. Feb. 12, 1904, moved to California from New Mexico in 1922 and has lived in La Verne most of the time since. He was a member of the Church of the Brethren, Glendora. For 15 years prior to his retirement in 1969, he worked for the C & E Lumber Co.

He is survived by his widow, Harriette; three sons, W. Lloyd of Yucaipa, Robert and William, both of La Verne; a daughter Mrs. Ollie Joanne White of Oakridge, Ore.; three sisters, Mrs. Carrie Burkhart of Glendora, Mrs. Eunice Snyder of Big Pine, and Mrs. Margaret Warner of Camby, Ore.; four brothers, Amos of La Verne, Chester and J. Howard of Grants Pass, Ore. and Dale of Sacramento and nine grandchildren.

Services will be held in Pomona Mausoleum Thursday at 1 p.m. Rev. Arthur Baldwin, pastor of the Church of the Brethren, Glendora, will officiate. Friends who wish may make memorial contributions to Samsun Clinic, 317 W. Pueblo St., Santa Barbara, Ca. 93105.

Todd Memorial Chapel is in charge of arrangements.

Worker shot several times

VAN NUYS (AP) — A construction worker has been shot and killed as he left his apartment to go to work. Police said Gene Spencer, 28, was shot several times Monday morning as he walked to his car in the parking lot.

Robbery was ruled out as a motive since Spencer's wallet was not disturbed.

Afraid You're Going Deaf?

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid of its kind will be given absolutely free to anyone answering this advertisement.

True, all hearing problems are not alike . . . and some cannot be helped by a hearing aid. But audiologists report that many can. So, send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 5499, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria St., Chicago, Ill. 60646.

At Security Pacific Bank, you can borrow on the money you have in your house.

Our simple interest Homeowners Loan Program means you can put the equity in your house to work.

The key word is equity. Quite simply, equity is the cash you've invested in your house plus its increase in market value since you bought it.

And in recent years, that's probably a lot. Why not use it? You may be able to borrow from $5,000 up, based on the equity in your house. And the loan will in no way affect the low interest rate you have on your first mortgage.

EQUAL HOUSING LENDER

You can take up to twelve years to pay it back, and if you should want to pay it back sooner, there is no penalty whatever. Just 12% annual percentage rate. Quite a bit lower than most installment loans, we might add. And our processing costs are low, too. Just $75. A glance at the chart will give you a pretty good idea of a program that will fit your income and your needs.

EXAMPLES OF HOMEOWNER LOAN PAYMENTS

Amount Financed	Monthly Payment	Term	FINANCE CHARGE	Total Payment
$ 5,000	$111.22	5 yrs	$1,673.20	$ 6,673.20
$ 5,000	$ 65.67	12 yrs	$4,456.48	$ 9,456.48
$ 7,800	$166.83	5 yrs	$2,509.80	$10,009.80
$ 7,800	$ 98.49	12 yrs	$6,682.56	$14,182.56

At Pomona College this week

Whale conference planned

"Of Whales and Whaling," a three-day conference on the ecology, biology and literature of whales, will be held at Pomona College Wednesday through Friday. Admission is free.

At 7 p.m., Wednesday in room 1, Crookshank Hall, the biology of the whale and the effects of whaling on its environment will be discussed by a panel consisting of Donald Patton, Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History; Millie Payne, executive professor of zoology, Pomona College; and Charles Pelton, Pomona College senior.

Thursday at 11 a.m. in Bridges Hall of Music, John C. Lilly biophysicist, neurologist and author of "The Mind of the Dolphin" will be the speaker. A community luncheon in Olney Hall will follow the lecture.

The conference will conclude on Friday with a panel discussion, "Melville and the Creative Whale," at noon in Olney Dining Hall. Panelists will be Harrison Hayford, professor of English, Northwestern University; Hershel Parker, professor of American Literature, USC; Edwin Schneideman, professor of thanatology, UCLA; and Howard P. Vincent, visiting professor of English, Pomona College.

An open seminar on the day's topic will be held at 2 p.m. in room 1, Crookshank Hall. Luncheon will be free to students and a nominal charge will be made to others.

A special exhibit of more than 60 prints and artifacts, including a model whaling boat, a miniature blue whale, scrimshaw, and old Dutch, French and German engravings, was opened to the public recently and runs through Jan. 19. It is located in the Thompson Lounge, Crookshank Hall, and was originally assembled for a USIA exhibit in Paris by Vincent.

Juvenile justice system discussed

Two men who work with youths will explain to members of the Claremont Coordinating Council Wednesday at noon how changes in state laws affect the juvenile justice system.

Speaking at the monthly luncheon at Taylor Hall will be Tom Watterson, director of the McKinley Home for Boys, and Charles Hedrick, probation officer in charge of Project Intercept.

Walnut council meets Wednesday

Walnut City Council will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The council will consider a request from Mt. San Antonio College to continue providing law enforcement services, and a request from administrators that they be allowed to invest city monies in the Local Agency Investment Fund.

The city engineer will recommend approval of the final tract map for the Bowen-Barthelemy tract on Grand Avenue.

A report on tentative general plan goals and objectives will be presented by the city engineer.

The city manager will present a request from the parks and recreation commission regarding a city celebration and a city motto.

A request for council and the city manager to attend a legislative conference in Sacramento will be presented for approval.

Quixote talk to be given

"Algunos Aspectos De. Quijote," an examination of some aspects of Don Quixote in light of the economic conditions of early 17th century Spain, will be presented by Charles V. Aubrun, a literary critic, at Pomona College on Wednesday. The public lecture, in Spanish, will begin at 4:15 p.m. in Mason Hall.

Aubrun, who currently teaches at UCLA, was director of the Institute of Hispanic Studies at the Sorbonne in Paris from 1952-1972. He has also taught at Columbia, the University of Texas, Cornell, Stanford.

Joyce Brothers

Blaming themselves

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Our 16-year-old is pregnant and my husband and I are overcome with guilt. We can't understand where we went wrong as parents. We've been aware for about six months that our daughter was running with a fast crowd but there wasn't much we could do, other than complain. We did but it did no good at all. They all drink too much and, of course, they smoke pot. The combination is disaster. Our daughter is often so drunk she claims she can't remember what she said or did. The doctor says it's too late for an abortion and we simply don't know what to do. — W.W.

Dear W.W.: I think the first thing to do is to try to stop accepting all the blame for your daughter's condition. First of all, as long as you're wallowing in guilt, you can't possibly give your daughter the support and guidance she now needs.

I'm in complete agreement with Dr. Wallace Denton, professor of child development and family life at Purdue University, who says parents accept too much blame for the faults and failures of their youngsters. There are many factors that come to bear upon children, including friends, school, teachers, community and the sexual revolution that has occurred nationally.

I advise you to encourage your daughter to release her baby for adoption for the sake of her own and her child's health and welfare. Sometimes, youngsters want to keep their babies, not out of love, but out of anger and rebellion against their parents.

Try to provide her with literature on alcoholism that is especially prepared for teenagers. The fact that she suffers from blackouts or loss of memory makes me think she may be an alcoholic.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: Over the past few years, I've noticed that I almost never get along with or like people who are finicky eaters. It sounds silly but if a person doesn't enjoy eating, I feel uncomfortable with him. I worry about whether people like me and if I have a meal with someone who complains about the food, or doesn't eat it, I have the feeling he doesn't like me. Why? — A.J.

Dear A.J.: Of course, as with all generalizations, there are exceptions to what I'm going to say, but studies indicate that people who enjoy eating usually seem to have a fondness for life itself. Those who feel guilty about eating, especially if they don't have weight problems, generally feel guilty about sex, about having a good time, enjoying a good film, or going to a good restaurant. In other words, they are people who probably have been brought up to believe that pleasure of any kind is suspect.

Studies show that persons who like most foods tend to have very different personalities than those who dislike many foods. I assume you enjoy eating and probably tend to be positive-minded, enterprising, outgoing, vigorous, and resolute, with a genuine fondness for people in general.

Though your dining companions may not dislike you, you may get that impression only because picky eaters are inclined to be introverted, are slow to form close relationships and have few intimate friends.

I'd say don't worry about it — and bon appetit!

CAROL CLARK

Betrothal revealed by couple

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Clark of Ontario announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Jeanne, to William Shepard Moore of Upland.

The bride-to-be is employed as a registered dental assistant in Upland. She is a 1971 graduate of Chaffey College.

Mr. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Moore of Upland, attends UCLA School of Dentistry. He is a 1974 graduate of the University of Redlands and was vice president of Alpha Epsilon Delta premedical honor society.

Twins unit schedules gathering

A white elephant auction will be a part of the activities planned by the Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins Club for its meeting Wednesday.

Hostess for the 8 p.m. meeting will be Mrs. Edla Becker.

All mothers of twins and multiples are invited to attend the meeting or they may contact the club by writing to Pomona Valley Mothers of Twins, P. O. Box 2084, Pomona, California 91766.

Freshen hair

Because hair that is very dark, very curly or dyed tends to be more porous than other hair, it's likely to absorb the smell of cigarette smoke and other pollutants more easily. Extra shampooing is advised to wash away odor.

AAUW activity set at Christian Church

The Rev. Phillip Yung Lee of Pasadena will be the speaker at the meeting of Pomona Valley Branch, American Association of University Women this evening.

The meeting will be held in First Christian Church, 1751 N. Park Ave., Pomona.

The speaker was born in Canton, China and educated there and in the United States. He was a Presbyterian minister in Chicago, Los Angeles and Hawaii. In 1974 he was given permission to visit relatives in China. He will show films of China and discuss it as he saw it then.

Pittington-Johnston vows are repeated

Newly wed Mr. and Mrs. Fred Pittington have established a home in Upland following their marriage in the Chapel of the Wildwood in Upland.

The former Susan Johnston is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Johnston of Pomona. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Agnes Trent of Fresno.

Honor attendant was Michele Foley of Ontario and best man was Curtis Burnath of Montclair.

The couple left the reception in the home of the bride's parents for a wedding trip to Big Bear and Lake Arrowhead.

Moderation

Some key words in getting a balanced diet are variety and moderation. We're most apt to get a balanced diet when we include a wide variety of foods in our diets and when we eat all foods in moderation. That old saying, "If a little is good, a lot must be better," is not true when it comes to foods or to nutrients.

Is Super Bowl most exciting?

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — As the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings lined up for Super Bowl XI, in a magnificent Rose Bowl setting with the snow-capped San Gabriel Mountains as a backdrop, a reporter in the press box could not restrain his enthusiasm.

"This must be the most exciting moment in all sports," he remarked.

Three seats away, a weather-beaten old codger who must have lugged countless typewriters up untold press box steps for numerous events of various description, overheard and demurred.

"Naw," he said. "Can't compare with a big heavyweight prize fight."

The impromptu dialogue set off a lively discussion among newsmen, even as the game progressed, on what creates the fastest pulse beat among a caloused breed not easily impressed.

The consensus: No sports event creates sparks to match those that occur moments before two outstanding heavyweights enter the ring for a title fight. At the same time, it was agreed, there is no general sports spectacle that can bring lumps into the throats of strong men like the opening and closing pageantry of an Olympic Games.

"The tension before the first Muhammad Ali-Joe Frazier fight ... I can think of nothing in my lifetime to match it," a fiftyish man observed. "I am sure it must have been the same when Dempsey went against Tunney, Louis against Schmeling, Rocky Marciano against Jersey Joe Walcott."

Another interposed, "It was pretty exciting when Ali fought George Foreman in Zaire and Frazier the third time in Manila."

Down on the chalk-lined grass, the Raiders reversed an early bad break and stormed to a 16-0 lead at halftime. Interest spewed from the massive stadium like air from one of the colorful balloons.

A man from New Orleans again steered the conversation away from the year's premier pro football extravaganza.

"I've never been moved by anything as much as at Belmont in 1973 when Secretariat turned into the home stretch with a 31-length lead for his Triple Crown," he said. "The press box was so stunned there wasn't a sound for several seconds. Then came this deafening roar."

Everybody agreed that Secretariat's unbelievable victory at Belmont should be placed high in the list of all-time sports thrillers.

A championship pro football game, with all its attendant fanfare, can be exciting. At the same time, it can be a dud—as in the case of most Super Bowls where teams have been overly cautious.

Oakland's easy victory over Minnesota did not fall into that category. The overpowering dominance by the Raiders was enough to stir the most cynical soul.

The Super Bowl, by its very nature, isn't able to produce the warm, personal attachment that comes from a baseball World Series or, for that matter, a Masters golf tournament.

In baseball, one can walk down on the field before a game, talk to Johnny Bench at the batting cage and duck one of Catfish Hunter's warmup pitches.

Baseball players become living, breathing characters—even to the millions watching on TV. Viewers see Luis Tiant chew, spit and exude large beads of sweat. They see a batter's muscles tense up and his eyes scan an outfield wall. They share the emotion.

Football players are held in isolation. On the field, their faces are covered with helmets and masks. Their emotion isn't seen. They become little more than pawns on a plastic board.

In golf, you can walk out on the course and talk to the player. In tennis, you can almost touch the tension when Jimmy Connors whales into a two-fisted backhand shot. The football player is a man with a number.

Shed a tear when they play "My Old Kentucky Home" at the Derby or choke a bit when the band blares out "Back in Indiana" at the Indy 500. There's enough sentiment to go around.

Gordien back in Sunkist meet

Several valley athletes will get the jump on the high school track season by participating in the Sunkist Invitational track meet Saturday afternoon in the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Kelly Gordien of Claremont High, Roger Innes of Upland, Joel Hope of Alta Loma, Barney Sue Carral of Pomona, Debbie Kainz of Ontario and relay teams representing Pomona and Garey highs will compete at the meet, put on by track promoter Al Franken.

Claremont's Gordien probably has the best chance to win an event of any of the local athletes. He competed in the Sunkist meet last year as well and placed fourth in the high jump at 6 feet, 4 inches. But Gordien went on last year to set the San Antonio League high jump record at 6-10½, enough to make him a co-favorite this year at the Sports Arena.

Gordien's chief competition should come from Santa Monica's Dennis Smith, who was recently named CIF 4A co-Player of the Year, along with Los Altos quarterback Randy Hertel, for the 1976 prep football season. Smith also cleared 6-10½ last year.

Gordien, also a two-sport man, is currently a starting forward on Claremont's basketball team.

He turned an ankle during the Chino Tournament a couple of weeks ago, but said that it was nothing serious and didn't hamper his high jump practice at all.

Innes, the 1976 San Antonio League cross country champion and sixth-place finisher at the CIF 3A finals, will compete in the rated two-mile run Saturday against Charles Rednick of Sherman Indian and Dennis Arriola of Gahr, among others.

Hope will run mile

Hope is entered in the mile, an event in which he finished third in the CIF 2A track finals in 1976. The Hacienda League cross country champ will go up against San Gorgonio's Dave Daniels, a 4:11.9 miler.

The 640-yard relay teams from Pomona and Garey will be up against some pretty stiff competition. Pomona will go against Pasadena, Verbum Dei and Gardena while Garey challenges Muir, Bell and Palisades.

Barney Sue Carrall will represent Pomona High in the girls' seeded 880, while Debbie Kainz of Ontario will compete in the girls' 500, where she'll run up against speedy Kim Law of Santa Ana Valley.

There will also be some local athletes competing in the open division of Saturday's indoor meet.

One of them will be Steve Scott, a former Upland High runner who is now at UC Irvine. Scott, who competed in the U.S. Olympic Qualifications for the 1,500-meter run last summer after leading Irvine to the NCAA Division II track championship with a Division II record 3:46.36 mark in the 1,500, will run the mile Saturday.

Among his competitors will be Thom Hunt, the prep sensation last year at Patrick Henry High in San Diego, who is now a freshman at Arizona.

Whitley in 10th meet

Competing in his 10th Sunkist meet will be Stan Whitley of Cal International track club. Whitley, a resident of Pomona and a teacher at Ramona Intermediate School in La Verne, will be in the open long jump. His best indoor mark is 25-11½ and his top mark outdoors is 26-8½. Whitley will jump against Arnie Robinson of Maccabi Track Club, Randy Williams of the Tobias Striders and Larry Doubley and Gerald Hardeman of USC.

A local relay team is entered in Saturday's open women's division. A foursome from the Southern California Cheetahs girls track club will compete in the 640-yard relay against the Los Angeles Mercurettes as well as the "A" and "B" teams from the L.A. Track Club.

The open division of Saturday's meet will feature some of the world's top track talent.

For example, Houston McTear of Santa Monica City College, Valeriy Borzov of the Soviet Union, Don Quarrie of Jamaica and the Tobias Striders, Hasely Crawford of Trinidad, Steve Williams and Dwayne Evans of Arizona and Steve Williams are all entered in both the 50 and 60-yard dashes.

Borzov will be one of four Soviets entered in the meet. Alexsandr Barisknikov, Russia's world record holder, and Montreal silver medalist Yevgeniy Moronov will both put the shot, while three-time Olympic triple jump champ Viktor Saneyev will compete in his specialty against Willie Banks of UCLA.

In the shot put, the two Russian entries will vie with three of this nation's best: Mac Wilkins and Al Feuerbach of the Pacific Coast Club and Terry Albritton of Stanford.

Competition will begin at 11:55 a.m. and the final event is scheduled for at 5:23 p.m.

Big names to skip Pro Bowl

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Practices for next week's Pro Bowl game are underway, but injuries and flights scrambled by the weather have kept some of the bigger football names out of the action.

Ken Stabler of the National Football League champion Oakland Raiders and Fran Tarkenton, Chuck Foreman and Alan Page, all of four-time Super Bowl runnerup Minnesota, are out of the game.

Stabler and Tarkenton, the starting quarterbacks in Sunday's Super Bowl at Pasadena, both have bum knees. Foreman was sidelined after striking a wall in the game during the second half of Oakland's 32-14 victory and Page was excused so he could return to Minneapolis to take law school exams.

Jim Hart of the St. Louis Cardinals is Tarkenton's replacement, while Ken Anderson of the Cincinnati Bengals replaced Stabler on the American Conference team.

The game is set for Monday in Seattle's Kingdome, but San Diego was picked as a warm weather practice site.

Running back Mike Thomas of the Redskins was notified late Monday afternoon he would play in place of Foreman, but missed Monday's practice.

Adverse weather around the country made it tough for other players to arrive in San Diego on time for the initial workout under the coaching of Chuck Noll of the Pittsburgh Steelers for the American Conference and Chuck Knox of the Los Angeles Rams for the National Conference Squad.

Other newcomers for the NFC team will be defensive tackle Larry Brooks of the Rams, who is Page's replacement, and San Francisco's Dave Washington, who takes over for injured Redskins' linebacker Chris Hanburger.

The only other AFC change is Denver's Otis Armstrong for running back O.J. Simpson, who suffered injured ribs in Buffalo's final game of the season.

The six replacements, an NFL official said, all were next on the list of players voted to the all-star teams by the 28 head coaches in the league.

Players say no to slate

NEW YORK (AP) — The American League has acquiesced to demands by the Major League Baseball Players Association that the 1977 schedule be revised, AL President Lee MacPhail said Monday.

"We did all the yielding," MacPhail said in a telephone interview, adding that the official schedule should be ready for release by the end of the month.

The union balked at early drafts of the schedule, which contained violations of its collective agreement with the owners.

At one point, Marvin Miller, executive director of the players' association, said there were 30 or more violations of the agreement's scheduling provisions.

Most of the violations had to do with rules guaranteeing at least one off day in every 19 and limiting days off to three in every seven-day period.

Both rules were intended to curb the tendency of northern teams to move games from the cold spring months to the peak attendance months of July and August.

MacPhail said the schedule revisions will cost some teams money.

"Several clubs had to give up dates," he said. "For the most part, we made the schedule conform to the rules by creating more twi-night doubleheaders."

Many clubs released their schedules in conjunction with their season ticket campaigns and now will have to announce revisions, MacPhail said.

NCAA rejects proposal

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association today rejected a proposal to reorganize Division I, voting to table the matter.

Reorganization was one of the key items on the agenda for the 71st NCAA convention.

A steering committee spent a full year creating the plan, but it took the 247 Division I members only 10 minutes to kill it.

Peter A. Carlesimo, athletic director at Fordham University, presented the motion to table, saying, "I think we are wrong...that some form of reorganization is necessary. I would like to see the steering committee go back to the drawing board."

A motion for a roll-call vote was turned down, and the proposal was defeated by a show of hands.

The convention then moved to reconsider the tabling of reorganization and rejected that motion also, meaning it is dead at this convention.

Prior to the vote, several small school representatives expressed concern that the reorganization would not be approved.

"I've never felt until now the point that the big schools might leave the NCAA," said Stanley J. Marshall, athletic director at South Dakota State University.

"We stand a very good chance of losing several fine institutions if reorganization is not approved. We will suffer. They will not suffer. We will suffer financially and in prestige."

Varshall pleaded with his fellow members of Division II to vocally support the reorganizaton plan, a package of proposals that sets criteria for membership in Division I. The proposed criteria include one to require the top classification in both football and basketball, plus six other sports.

Division I basketball schools that presently have no football program expressed concern Monday over the loss of voting rights in Division I. Such a school could declare its intent to comply with the criteria and have three years to meet the requirements, but during that period they would be forced to vote in Division II.

There was the possibility an amendment would be offered to allow schools to vote in Division I matters involving the sport in which the school carries Division I status.

"This is basically an attempt to placate the football powers," said the Rev. Phillip Callaghan, NCAA faculty representative from San Francisco. "I've heard a lot of rhetoric about how much we owe them, but we all pay the same dues, don't we?"

San Francisco does not meet the eight-sport criteria and would drop to Division II. The school is ranked No. 1 nationally in The Associated Press college basketball poll.

"Basketball schools don't want their destiny determined by football schools," said Richard J. Regan, athletic director at Seton Hall.

"Unless we have a vote in Division I we're powerless," said Marc F. Griesbach, chairman of the athletic board at Marquette.

Division II schools also will watch the Division I vote on athletic scholarships based on need.

Ballard gets honor

Pomona's Greg Ballard, who led the Oregon Ducks to a weekend sweep over UCLA and USC in the Southland, was honored today as the Pacific-8 Conference basketball player of the week.

The Garey High product scored 22 points including two free throws in the final second to pace a 61-60 upset win over UCLA at Pauley Pavilion and added 27 points in a 64-52 triumph over USC.

After the Trojans' loss to Oregon, USC coach Bob Boyd said, "Ballard is the most effective player in the Pac-8 because he has the most influence on the game."

Oregon State's Rocky Smith, who had 46 points as the Beavers split two games, and Washington State's Steve Puidokas, who tallied 39 points in two victories, were other nominees for the weekly award.

Poly hosts Point Loma

Cal Poly Pomona's basketball team gets its final pre-conference tune-up at Kellogg Gym tonight and the Broncos (4-8) figure to get a tough test from visiting Point Loma (10-3) in an 8 p.m. tipoff.

Poly opens CCAA play at UC Riverside Friday and coach Don Hogan is anxious to get his team ready for conference play.

He is hoping Saturday's 78-60 win over Cal State Dominguez Hills is an indication things are starting to jell.

"We exhibited some strong team tendencies and displayed an unselfish team effort," Hogan said about the win. "We pressed them and when he had the ball, we were able to control the tempo of the game."

Forward Broderick Hunter, the former Ganesha High star, scored eight points in a reserve role in his second game for the Broncs and seven-foot center Carl Jones saw his first action of the action, making his only field goal.

Guard Charles Johnson, a transfer from a Missouri junior college, was named the team's Player of the Week by the Miller Brewing Company for his 30 points in the two games last week.

"Charles has been playing well for us," Hogan said. "He's been guilty of some turnovers but so has the entire team."

Point Loma is coming off a third place finish in its own tournament.

The Crusaders from San Diego figure to be one of the better NAIA District Three teams this season.

Point Loma is a high-scoring team with an average of 83 points per game helped by 52 per cent shooting. Coach Ben Foster also has a balanced attack led by guard Jeff Armstrong, forward Barrie Elliott and center Ron Owens.

In the third place game, Point Loma shaded Azusa Pacific, 67-64. Azusa recorded a 59-58 upset win over Poly last week.

Gladstone is Hacienda surprise

There are three basketball teams tied for first place in the Hacienda League after one week of play, and one of them is quite a surprise.

Alta Loma and Ontario were expected to be there. Their records — 12-2 for the Jaguars and 12-3 for the Braves — are the best among valley high school teams.

But no one really looked for Gladstone to be a tri-leader, even after just two games. The Gladiators were winless in eight games a week ago, but they now have two Hacienda League victories under their belts.

Gladstone's wins have been narrow to be sure. The Glads opened with a 59-56 win over Bonita and followed that up with a 64-62 triumph over Royal Oak. Aaron Shaffer scored 24 points in the first game and 22 in the second.

But the Gladiators' streak is expected to come to a close Wednesday when they host Walnut at 4:45 p.m. The Mustangs appear to be a better team than their record (1-1 in league play, 6-7 overall) indicates.

Guard Jeff Davis, the valley's No. 3 prep scorer with a 20.1 average for 13 games, leads the Mustang attack, and forward Doug Vind is averaging 15.5 points per game.

Wednesday's other HL contests will find Alta Loma at Bonita, San Dimas at Ontario and Sierra Vista at Royal Oak. All those games will begin at 4:45 p.m.

The Alta Loma-Bonita matchups were the games of the year in the Hacienda League last year, when the Braves won the title and the Bearcats were second.

This year, however, the game is a mismatch on paper.

Alta Loma is 2-0 after a week of league play and will match its 12-3 record against Bonita's 1-10 mark. Bonita's only win was a tournament victory over Pomona.

The Braves' scoring is paced by their two big men, 6-foot-10 center Rich Davis (14 points per game) and 6-4½ Kevin Comstock (13). Keith Brandt and Keith Knight lead the Bearcats with about 11 points per game apiece.

Ontario's Otis Manning paces his team's very balanced scoring attack. Manning is averaging 15.6 points per outing, while teammates Mickey Donaldson (12 points), John Donaldson (10) and Leo Olivas (nine) are next in line.

San Dimas' Mark Klein averages over 17 points per game, but his next highest scoring teammate is sophomore Mike MacDonald (nine).

UCLA junks delay in favor of attack

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Coach Gene Bartow of the UCLA basketball Bruins says he is giving up a delay type of offense when his club leads near the end of the game.

Twice that sophisticated style of keep away has been used in contests his club ultimately lost—and they've only lost two.

"On the basis of the Notre Dame and Oregon games, the delay has been very bad for us," Bartow told his regular Monday news conference.

"My feeling now is that we're going to attack, attack, attack for 40 minutes. With this team, we're better off attacking."

Defending champion UCLA lost its opening Pac-8 conference game to Oregon 61-60 last Friday night and earlier had lost to Notre Dame 66-63 in an intersectional battle.

Both times the Bruins had led before going into the delay, a close relative of the stall. UCLA came back to beat Oregon State on Saturday night for a 1-1 conference record and 11-2 overall.

"We played well against Oregon State and we played well at times against a good Oregon team. Oregon has a team that must be reckoned with, one that could go right to the wire in the conference race.

"In a lot of respects, we find ourselves in the same position we were in last season," the big task now is to have ourselves ready to play against a good California team and a Stanford team that is surprising.

UCLA plays at Cal on Thursday night and at Stanford on Saturday night.

"All in all, being 11-2 at this point after 13 games is in many ways gratifying. But if you want to look at the two losses and see we're only two minutes away from being rated No. 1, it is disappointing."

Again it was a reference to the delay tactics in the final minute of each game.

Bartow continued, "Had we won that Notre Dame game, we'd have been No. 1 in the country. Does it help you to be No. 1? Maybe it does and maybe it doesn't. I'll like to try it some time."

UCLA was 1-1 after the first two Pac-8 games of last season, losing to Oregon State in the opening set. The Bruins finished 13-1 and 28-4 overall, losing to champion Indiana in the NCAA tournament semifinals.

"I would doubt at this time that anyone in our conference would win 12 Pac-8 games," Bartow said. There's pretty good balance. There'll be a lot of us who'll be glad to have 11-3 records."

Oregon, Washington and Washington State were off to the fastest starts at 2-0.

Bill Duffy moves up

Bill Duffy of Damien High has taken sole possession of first place in the Progress Bulletin's prep basketball scoring derby.

Duffy scored 24 and 28 points in his two games last week to increase his average to 21.9 per contest. He has 241 points in 11 games.

La Verne Lutheran's Gregg Guenther holds second place with 205 points in 10 games for a 20.5 average and Walnut's Jeff Davis is third with a 20.1 average. Davis has 261 points in 13 games.

That trio of players has made up the top three in every PB scoring derby so far.

Garey is the only school with two players among the top 10. The Vikings' James Lofton and Herbi Banks rank seventh and ninth, respectively, with averages of 17.1 and 15.7 points.

San Dimas' Mark Klein (No. 6) and Ganesha's James Verdon (No. 8) are the only juniors in the top 10.

Diamond Bar sign-ups set

Sign-ups for the Diamond Bar Little League will be taken from 7 through 10 p.m. Wednesday at the Diamond Bar Country Club.

Youths, ages 8 through 15 as of July 31, are eligible to play. All candidates should bring a birth certificate and be accompanied by a parent.

Major league baseball players Willie Crawford, Von Joshua and George Hendrick are scheduled to be present for signing autographs.

Oakland party turns rough

OAKLAND (AP) — At least eight persons were injured and 10 arrested when the official civic salute to the world champion Oakland Raiders football team turned ugly, police reported today.

Fighting and malicious mischief was widespread, authorities said, as under 20,000 fans — half what had been hoped for — gathered in the Oakland Coliseum to salute the Super Bowl winners Monday night.

"Any time you have that sort of thing you can expect some of the problems that occurred," a police spokesman said. "It was malicious, mean sort of stuff."

In contrast to the whooping, yelling, joyous crowds that jammed Jack London Square Sunday night following the Raiders 32-14 win over the Minnesota Vikings, Monday's crowd was surly.

Police said people were beaten by roving groups of teenagers, several car windshields were smashed and a few people said they had been victimized by purse snatchers or pickpockets.

Several hours after the 90 minute salute to the Raiders had ended, police reported the arrests of three adults for drunkeness and two for assault and battery. Five juveniles were booked on various charges.

Coliseum security officers, who normally handle crowds without the help of local police, were forced to recruit four dozen city officers who had been posted outside the stadium to handle traffic to help control the mop.

Highland General Hospital reported treating eight persons for cuts, bruises and lacerations suffered when they were attacked at the Coliseum. None of the injuries were serious.

Authorities said the disturbances peaked prior to the Raiders' arrival, then picked up again following the on-the-field activities.

Quarterback Ken Stabler, who was able to attend after backing out of the Pro Bowl because of a knee injury, drew a long standing ovation when he addressed the crowd.

There were cheers as the Raiders and their families marched onto the field, led by cornerback Willie Brown and running back Pete Banaszak carrying the Super Bowl's Vince Lombardi Trophy.

Earlier in the day about 300 early bird rooters met the Raiders' charter plane with traditional chants of "We're No. 1" when it arrived at the Oakland airport.

City officials had scheduled the Coliseum salute in hopes of eliminating a jam-up at the airport, which they said did not have the facilities to handle large crowds.

Tennis classes set in Claremont

Tennis instruction will be given to three classes meeting over a 12-week period beginning Jan. 15 at Cahuilla Park in Claremont.

The city's Community Services Department is sponsoring the new series, with first registrations to be accepted Saturday from 9 to 11 a.m. at Memorial Park, 840 N. Indian Hill Blvd. The registration will continue through the following week.

Junior instruction is scheduled from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. and adult instruction from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Saturdays A second adult class will meet Thursdays from 12:30 to 2 p.m. Juniors will be charged $15.50 and adults $23. Non-Claremont residents must pay an additional 25 per cent non-residence fee.

Sports briefs

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association today approved a resolution automatically placing eight predominantly black Southern schools in Division I football.

The schools are Alcorn State, Florida A&M, Grambling, Jackson State, South Carolina State, Southern University, Tennessee State University and Texas Southern.

The addition brings to 145 the number of teams competing in Division I football.

The action came at the NCAA's 71st convention. The resolution, proposed by the Southwestern Athletic Conference, was approved in a show of hands vote.

The qualification for Division I membership that was waived was one requiring a football team to play a schedule on which 50 per cent of the opponents were classified as Division I teams.

The SWAC pointed out that such a standard was impossible since most of those schools played against each other or against other predominantly black teams in the South.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Manuel Orantes of Spain, seeded No. 3, has drawn fourthseeded Eddie Dibbs as his opening-round opponent in the Birmingham International Invitational Tennis Tournament when play begins Wednesday.

Top-seeded Jimmy Connors opens his bid for the title in the World Championship Tennis tour matches against Buster Mottram of England, while No. 2 seed Ilie Nastase goes against Poland's Wojtek Fibak.

Other first-round singles pairings are: Tom Okker and Cliff Drysdale, Sandy Mayer and Jan Kodes, Harold Solomon and Vitas Gerulaitis, Billy Martin and Ray Moore, and Bill Scanlon and Gene Mayer.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Oregon State-University of Tennessee football game Oct. 1 has been switched from Memphis to Knoxville, Tennessee assistant athletic director Gus Manning said Monday.

"We decided to move the game because of the recent decision to change the site of the Ole Miss game Nov. 12th from Jackson, Miss. to Memphis," Manning said, adding that Oregon State officials consented to the change.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Defending champion Jimmy Connors drew the top seed Monday in the U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championship, to be played Jan. 24-30.

Bjorn Borg of Sweden was seeded second and Ilie Nastase of Rumania was seeded third in the $200,000 event.

The remainder of the top 10 seeds are Manual Orantes of Spain, Adriano Panatta of Italy, Harold Solomon, Eddie Dibbs, Brian Gottfried and Arthur Ashe, all of the United States, and Ken Rosewall of Australia.

Chaffey suffers first CBL loss

RIALTO - Chaffey High started out well, then fell to pieces and eventually was beaten by Rialto, 83-50, in a Citrus Belt League game Monday night at Rialto.

The Tigers, now 2-1 in league play and 4-8 overall, led by one point, 9-8, after the first six minutes. But from then on they couldn't do anything right.

Eisenhower, 3-0 in the CBL and 8-1 overall, outscored the Tigers, 30-9, in the next 10 minutes to lead, 38-21, at the half.

In other CBL games, Redlands beat Pacific, 85-57 to remain tied with Eisenhower and San Gorgonio defeated Fontana by a 69-52 score.

Center Randy Wenzel with 11 points was the only Chaffey player in double figures. Guards Ron and Roy Lott, with 10 apiece, were the only Ike starters in double figures, but John Moses and Alonzo Spikes came off the bench to score 13 and 11 points respectively for Ike.

Chaffey travels to San Gogo Wednesday.

Fischer to coach

Jon Fischer, former Claremont High star, has been named the school's head swim coach. Fischer is an instructor at the Crippled Children's Society at Claremont.

Fischer replaces longtime Claremont coach Gene McCarthy, who retired as swim coach.

Cliff Hoover has been named assistant wrestling coach and head coach for freshman baseball. Hoover, a substitute teacher, had been assistant varsity baseball coach the past four seasons. He replaces Michael Lawshe, who quit as freshman baseball coach.

TOP SPRINTER Houston McTear, the co-world record holder in the 100-yard dash at 9.0 seconds, practices his start at Santa Monica College, where he is a freshman. McTear will run Saturday afternoon in the Sunkist Invitational track meet at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

Cal Poly names grid assistants

New Cal Poly football coach Jim Jones has announced two assistants in the first step of building a new staff at Poly.

Bob Green, 36, an assistant last year for Jones at South Hills High, and Bill Drake, 26, the linebacker coach at Nevada Reno, were announced as additions by Jones.

Both men have either student or playing backgrounds in the Pomona area.

Green will serve as the offensive line coach for the Broncos while Drake will be the defensive coordinator and linebacker coach under Jones.

Additional assistants to be announced soon will fill out the staff.

After playing two years at Modesto Junior College, Green transferred to Poly but an injury in spring practice stopped him from ever playing for the Broncos.

Green later finished his playing career as a center and linebacker at Sacramento State.

He started his coaching career at California as an assistant and went on to Bellarmine High in San Jose where he coached Houston Oilers' quarterback Dan Pastorini as a prep player in 1963-65.

After serving as an assistant at Rowland High in 1965, Green became the head coach at Workman in 1966. After compiling a 51-37-2 record, he resigned in 1975 to go into school administration.

However, he got back into football last year by joining Jones' staff at South Hills.

"I met Jones in 1975 when he served as the head coach in the San Gabriel Valley All-Star Game and I was selected as an assistant," Green said. "I enjoyed working under him and wanted to continue the relationship."

Green, his wife Gerry, and their three children reside in West Covina.

Drake, who also will serve as recruiting coordinator for the Broncs, played for Jones at South Hills in 1967 and 1968 when he made the All-CIF team as a linebacker.

His success continued at the University of Colorado where he was a starter on three bowl teams.

Drake, his wife Jennifer, and their two children are currently in the process of moving from Reno to the Pomona area.

Prior to coaching at Reno, Drake served as an assistant at his alma mater Colorado, Washington and Nevada Las Vegas.

Kings enjoy royal time in SEC play

By Associated Press

Two Kings, Reginald and Bernard, are having a royal time of it in Southeastern Conference basketball play.

Reginald King scored 31 points to lead unbeaten, fourth-ranked Alabama to its 13th victory of the season Monday night, a 101-88 triumph over SEC rival Mississippi.

"I'm proud of our team for winning four games in eight days," said Alabama Coach C.M. Newton. "As tight as the conference race is, there is a lot of mental tiredness as well as physical. Our December schedule is behind us. Instead of 13-0, we're 4-0 in the conference. That's what matters."

One reason the SEC race is so tight is Bernard King. The SEC scoring leader also poured in 31 points Monday night to power Tennessee to a 92-82 triumph over Florida, boosting the Vols' record to 3-0 in the conference and 9-2 overall.

"Bernard King is the best one-on-one player in America," Florida Coach John Lotz declared. "He plays with a lot of emotion and enthusiasm. A lot of people have badmouthed him, but I tell you this—I would like to have him."

The two Kings, who are not related, promise to help their teams provide solid challenges to the SEC favorite, Kentucky. The Wildcats, ranked second nationally behind San Francisco, are 2-0 in SEC play and 9-1 overall. They were idle Monday night.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 16 Arkansas trimmed Texas Tech 60-53 and No. 18 Memphis State beat Tulane 78-64.

Alabama and Mississippi were tied 70-70 with 11 minutes left, but the Crimson Tide dominated play after that. Two baskets by freshman Robert Scott in the final minute of play clinched the victory for Alabama.

Tennessee's Ernie Grunfeld, who edged out teammate Bernard King for the SEC scoring crown last season, added 25 points for the Vols. He hit a pair of three-point plays at the opening of the second half to put the Vols in command at 44-37. The Gators closed to within two in the late going but could not catch up.

Arkansas, 11-1, jumped out to a 13-point lead over Texas Tech, saw the Raiders move within six but then got five points from sophomore guard Sidney Moncrief in just four seconds to clinch it. Moncreif converted an offensive rebound and a free throw, then picked off a pass and scored to complete his burst. He was Arkansas' high scorer with 23 points.

James Bradley scored 22 points and grabbed 11 rebounds for Memphis State in its Metro Seven conference win over Tulane, which got 23 points and 20 rebounds from 6-foot-11 Jeff Cummings. Memphis State, now 13-1, led 41-27 at halftime and then turned back a Tulane challenge that was led by Cummings.

In other games, Tate Armstrong hit 13 of 17 shots from the field and scored 28 points to lead Duke over Lafayette 93-77, Duke's 10th straight victory after a season-opening loss; William & Mary shot 74 per cent from the floor in the second half and beat Virginia 71-65; Joe McCall scored 19 points and Kevin Bass 18, including the go-ahead basket in the final two minutes, as Iona upset St. John's, N.Y. 68-66, and Rick Apke's 25 points helped Creighton raise its record to 9-2 with a 63-60 victory over Cleveland State.

Also, Mike Mitchell's 40 points carried Auburn past Georgia 95-71; Pete Lodwick scored 23 points to lead Southern Methodist over Rice 72-61; sophomores John Moore and Jim Krivacs combined for 43 points to help Texas beat Texas A&M 87-73 and give Coach Abe Lemons his first Southwest Conference victory; Gary Winton's 21 points powered Army, 11-3, to a 72-67 overtime win over Scranton, and Larry Spicer's 31 points and 14 rebounds led Baylor past Texas Christian 90-74.

Both Billy Newton of Morgan State and Kent Andrews of McNeese State set basketball free throw percentage records last season. Each dropped 8[illegible] shots in 90 attempts.

Will free agent draft harm baseball?

By PAUL CLICK
PB Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — How will the free agent shape baseball's destiny?

Can multi-year-million dollar contracts harm baseball?

What happens to the weaker franchises?

These are just a few of the many questions that still remain unanswered about baseball's newest novelty. It's called the free agent reentry draft.

Sparky Anderson, manager of the world champion Cincinnati Reds, commented in an interview with this writer at a baseball clinic at USC's Dedeaux field, "I don't know what's down the road. I hate to think we'd put money ahead of everything else."

A majority of baseball's devoted disciples are worried that the owners may rapidly be asphyxiating baseball's future. They've unleashed a potentially destructive monster on the sport by dishing out these numerous million dollar contracts to the free agents.

"I think that were going to know in the next five years what it's going to do to baseball," explained Anderson. "I hope itdoesn't damage it enough that we can't heal the wounds. I don't think anything will ever destroy baseball, however, I do think we can do some damage to it!"

Teams with the ideal areas, climate, attendance figures, and who are possible pennant contenders will probably attract a majority of the free agent players.

Anderson continued, "What's going to happen to these guys who get a five year contract? You can't tell me that a player who has a five year contract will play ball the same way he would with a one year contract."

Theories have sprung up during hot-stove league discussions about baseball's free agent and the reentry draft.

A popular hypothesis is that the balance of clubs will be upset by owners who feed the free agents such lucarative contracts. Also, many people are worried that the rich teams will get richer and the poorer teams will drop out of exsistance.

Cal Poly's skipper John Scolinos noted, "I'm for the players having freedom but I can't believe the money they're going for."

SPARKY ANDERSON

November's re-entry draft has seen 19 athletes signed for an astrononomical amount of cash which is estimated between $23 and $25 million dollars.

"With all this big money that is involved, I think it's going to hurt the game if they keep it up yearly," added Scolinos. There's just too many of them!

"I can see a guy going for a respectable amount but these amounts are ridiculous! If next year's draft has as many free agents as this year, baseball is going to go downhill. They just can't afford another year like this one!"

The "Catfish" Hunter and Andy Messersmith cases threw a monkey wrench in baseball's rigid reserve clause that bound a player to one team for life.

Up until 1973, Henry Aaron commanded the highest salary ever paid to a baseball star at $200,000 a year.

Former Dodger shortstop Maury Wills said, "The owners must feel that they are worth that type of money. Otherwise they wouldn't pay these sums of money.

"I could imagine if every owner got together and said we're not going to pay them anything it would work."

Scolinos acknowledged, "They're going to have to put a stop to these salaries. The Commissioner has to take the bull by the horn! The Oakland A's are nothing now. At its present rate baseball's future with the free agent is in serious trouble."

The Cincinnati Reds were the only organization who showed little or no interest in baseball's million dollar sweepstakes draft. The Reds stubbornly refused to submit to these ludicrous salary demands.

"I hope we never buy one single player," exclaimed Anderson. "If I was a player on a club that bought a free agent, I would want as much money as he got or I wouldn't play.

"I would have to guess that it would disrupt the harmony of a ballclub."

However, there are people who think baseball is strong enough to survive any calamity.

They point out that it can give the bottom clubs an opportunity to advance in the standings. It's an excellent way for the weaker clubs to get a shot at becoming instant pennant contenders. No longer are the cellar dwellers forced to grope along without the blue chip players.

Ernie Banks, a Chicago Cub for 19 years, dosen't feel that baseball will disintegrate because of the free agent.

"No, I don't see it hurting the game. I think it's just a phase that were going through," noted the popular Banks.

"I think it's a big advantage for the players who'll be in a position to negotiate and make the good contracts. I'm sure that the owners feel down the road they'll be drawing more fans to pay off these salaries."

Scolinos is concerned about the fan who helps pay the athletes' salary. What happens when the fans realize they're a pawn in this money game? No one can say at this juncture.

"Fans become attach to certain players," remarked Scolinos. "When they begin to jump from one team to another the player loses his integrity in the eyes of the fans. The fan feels cheated. It's just not a good thing from their viewpoint that they're paying the freight."

However, Banks sees salaries eventually stabilizing.

He commented, "I don't see players constantly jumping. Players like to stay in one place, establish friends, and establish some kind of background in a city rather than hopping to various cities."

"I think it's great for the free agents," Wills said, "although it's kind of rough on the owners right now.

"I played 22 years professionally and I never had a word to say about where I played, how long I played or when I played. I think it's nice that the players have a little leverage now and have something to say about their destiny!

"On the otherhand, I believe that the owners deserve a fair shake too. So somewhere along the line both sides will have to get together. They'll need to come up with something that's livable for both players and owners."

Players, jumping from one club to another, have left whopping holes to be filled on the ballclubs they jumped.

What happens to a club that has no chance of buying a free agent player after losing blue chip material from its own roster?

Anderson said, "I'm a little bit afraid of what is going to happen to some ballclubs that can't afford to go out an buy these people."

These unfortunate clubs will probably disappear as the dinosaur did once out of its environment. Hopefully, enough clubs can acquire the services of top free agent players to keep dynasties from springing up out of the woodwork.

No matter what avenue baseball takes because of the free agent, its doubtful that the sport will lose its popularity.

Banks remarked, "Baseball has not lost any of its popularity. Last year we put over 44 million people in the parks."

"Baseball continues to thrive every year," added Wills. "Baseball is very healthy at this juncture."

"I think our game is growing," continued Banks. "We're attracting more young people between 18 and 35 out to the parks each year. Our game is rising and we'll always be the national pastime!"

Poly's women's team faces busy schedule

Cal Poly women's basketball team will have a busy week at home with three games during the next four nights at the women's gymnasium.

Coach Darlene May's Broncos (6-1) will host national power Cal State Fullerton Wednesday night, touring Nebraska Friday and UC Santa Barbara Saturday. All three tipoffs will be at 8 p.m.

Fullerton is currently fifth in the national rankings.

Poly posted a stunning 56-55 win over Fullerton at home last year in a game which matured the Broncos into a serious contender for small college honors.

Two outstanding personal performances for Poly last year included forward Barbara Thaller scoring 19 points in a reserve role and center Mary Reichert limiting Fullerton All-American Nancy Dunkle, who was averaging 22.5 points per game, to just six points. Forward Brenda Martin led the Titans with 14.

Thaller, Reichert, Dunkle and Martin are all back for Wednesday's rematch.

"Fullerton is improved over last year, no question about it. But I think we are improved also. If we play good defense like we have been and hit the defensive boards, we can beat them," May said.

May credits her team's defense for last week's wins over UC Irvine (88-41) and USC (75-53).

"The only thing keeping us in some of these games is our defense. We have got to play good defense to win. You can always predict the degree of defense a team will play but that isn't always true for your offense."

Dodgers announce their special promotion nights

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers will open their 1977 season with major promotional events at Dodger Stadium.

The Dodgers will open their season on Thursday afternoon, April 7, against the San Francisco Giants. It will mark the 20th year of the Dodgers in Los Angeles and the first time the Dodgers have met the Giants in an opening game since the 1958 season when the first National League game was played in Los Angeles.

A special souvenir ticket will be prepared for the Dodgers' opener and there will be ceremonies to commemorate the 20th year in Los Angeles.

The Dodgers will close their season on Sunday, Oct. 2, when they play the Houston Astros and it will be Fan Appreciation Day.

The Dodgers' promotional list includes Jacket Series (April 11, 12 and 13), Ball Night (April 29), Batting Glove Night (May 6), T-Shirt Night (July 8) and Helmet Weekend (July 22, 23 and 24). Youngsters 14 and under will receive items at each of these dates.

Other promotional dates on the schedule are Photo Album Night on June 3rd and Cap Night on June 17th. All fans in attendance will receive the photo album and Dodger cap.

Other special dates will be Oldtimers Day (June 5), Camera Day (June 19), Businessmen's Special (July 28), Dodger Family Game (August 12), Country Music Day (August 14) and Hollywood Stars Night (August 27).

There will be four Teen-Dates — April 9, April 30, Sept. 2 and Sept. 28. The Dodgers' only doubleheader on their home schedule will be on July 10.

Mail orders are now being accepted by the Dodgers. Box seats are priced at $4.50 and reserved seats at $3. There is a 50 cents charge for postage and handling. Mail orders should be sent to Ticket Manager, Los Angeles Dodgers, Post Office Box 80100, Los Angeles, CA 90080.

Shrine Club honors Alston

LOS ANGELES — The Westwood Shrine Club will host a dinner to honor retiring Dodger manager Walt Alston and his successor, Tommy Lasorda, on Wednesday evening.

The dinner will be held in the International Ballroom at the Beverly Hilton Hotel, and will be emceed by the voice of the Dodgers, Vin Scully.

Entertainment at the dinner will be provided by Walter Matthau, Phil Silvers, Jack Albertson, Hal Kanter and Ron Masak. Manny Harmon's band will perform.

Many former Dodgers will be on hand, including Sandy Kofax, Don Drysdale, Norm Sherry, Ron Fairly, Ron Perranoski, Chuck Essegian, Norm Larker and Don Newcombe.

The 1977 Dodgers will be represented by Ron Cey, Steve Yeager, Steve Garvey, Davey Lopes, Burt Hooton, Bill Buckner, Dusty Baker, Charlie Hough, Rick Rhoden and coach Jim Gilliam.

The National League's Most Valuable Player of 1976, Cincinnati's Joe Morgan and his manager, Sparky Anderson, will be among other baseball celebrities in attendance.

Tickets are priced at $25 each and can be obtained by contacting Mike Shapiro at (213) 879-5151.

Dodgers show 26 on TV

LOS ANGELES — Twenty-six games of the Los Angeles Dodgers, including six with the world champion Cincinnati Reds, will be televised by the Los Angeles Dodgers and their television sponsors on KTTV (Channel 11) during the 1977 season.

The Dodgers' schedule of televised games will include four spring training contests, highlighted by a game with the New York Mets, from the Dominican Republic, on Sunday, March 20.

The first telecast will take place on Sunday, March 13, when the Dodgers play the Atlanta Braves in Vero Beach, Fla. Other spring games to be televised will be a Sunday, March 27, game with the Houston Astros and a Monday night game, April 4, with the San Francisco Giants at Phoenix, Ariz.

During the National League season all Dodger Sunday games on the road will be televised. The format will enable fans to see at least one game with each of the Dodgers' N.L. opponents.

The six televised games with Cincinnati will include a Sunday doubleheader on June 26. A three-game weekend series in Cincinnati will be televised Sept. 9, 10 and 11.

The Dodgers' TV schedule shows 13 Sunday dates, two Saturday dates and six weekday dates.

The Dodgers' announcing team for the televised games will be Vin Scully, Jerry Doggett and Ross Porter.

The Dodgers' 1977 television schedule (Los Angeles air time listed):

March 13 — Braves at Vero Beach, 10:10 a.m.; March 20 — Mets at Dominican Republic, 8:40 a.m.; March 27 — Astros at Vero Beach 10:10 a.m.; April 4 — Giants at Phoenix, 6:40 p.m.; April 17 — at S.F., 12:45 p.m.; April 24 — at Atlanta, 10:55 a.m.; April 28 — at San Diego, 6:40 p.m.; May 15 — at Phil., 10:45 a.m.; May 22 — at Pitt., 10:15 a.m.; May 31 — at Houston, 5:15 p.m.; June 12 — at St. Louis, 10:50 a.m.; June 24 — at Cin., 4:45 p.m.; June 26 — at Cin., 9:55 a.m. (doubleheader); July 1 — at S.F., 7:15 p.m., July 2 — at S.F., 7:15 p.m.; July 3 — at S.F., 12:45 p.m.; July 17 — at San Diego, 12:40 p.m.; July 31 — at Mont., 10:55 a.m.; Aug. 7 — at Phil., 10:15 a.m.; Aug. 21 — at Chicago, 10:55 a.m.; Aug. 24 — at Pitt., 4:15 p.m.; Sept. 9 — at Cin., 4:45 p.m.; Sept. 10 — at Cin., 3:40 p.m.; Sept. 11 — at Cin., 10:55 a.m.; Sept. 25 — Houston, 11:45 a.m.

Citizens demanding protection

'Vigilante committees' feared by councilman

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Citizens demanding intensified police protection confronted the Pomona City Council Monday night and one City Councilman said he feared "vigilante committees" may soon be formed if the city does not act swiftly in curbing a crime wave.

Businessmen from the West Second Street area complained bitterly that their section of the city is rampant with crime and that police are either unable or unwilling to effectively deal with the mounting violence.

Impetus for Monday's action by the citizens was apparently provided by the slaying of James Michael Base, 20, outside his father's trucking business at 1573 W. Second St. a week ago Monday.

Young Base was shot one time in the neck after surprising thieves in the compound of business.

The victim's father pleaded with the council Monday night.

"Don't procrastinate. Get on it and do something," said Ronald L. Base.

Emotions ran high following the brief remarks by Base and the council voted to offer a $2,500 reward to anyone providing information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer — or the killer in any other murder case in the city.

Councilman Adrian Wright said it might be better to use the money to "bolster the force" — apparently meaning that additional policemen should be hired.

Another councilman, Charles Bader, asked for a cost estimate of putting an additional police unit on the streets around the clock.

"People are more concerned about crime than the budget. They don't mind the cost, they want something done. Pretty soon we're going to have a vigilante committee. Everyone has a gun," said Wright.

He predicted that people would be willing to have higher taxes "if that's what it takes."

Some of the complaints lodged by citizens Monday night, and earlier in the day when a group of businessmen met with Police Chief Richard Slaght, dealt not only with the number of policemen in Pomona but also the officers' attitudes.

In a memo to council members, Donald Duckworth, assistant to City Administrator Jerrold Gonce, wrote that the businessmen complained "police vehicles don't stop to investigate abandoned or suspicious vehicles or persons" and that calls to the police about crime "in progress" are spent giving police dispatchers useless information.

Businessmen attending that meeting included John Haendiges Jr., John Haendiges Sr., Bill Scott, James Lattin, Kenneth Schlick, Dick Hynek and Mike Macardian.

City officials attending the meeting, in addition to Duckworth, were Slaght, Capt. Vernon Weigand and Wright.

In addition to the Second Street businessmen, a number of other residents also had police related complaints.

One, Kyle Baker, charged that the police force is a "retirement club." He said he is ignored when he calls with information about suspicious activities in his neighborhood.

Another, Henry Cole, said police took 25 minutes to answer a call about a murder.

Although the council voted to put up the reward money, there was no clear indication of when the council might review the need for increasing the size of the police department.

Mayor Ray Lepire suggested that the council wait until Slaght delivers his report concerning operation of the department.

Appointed chief last September, Slaght has been preparing an assessment of the department's operations and his proposals for increasing the efficiency of the force.

Lepire said he believed the report would be completed within the next few weeks.

In addition to the emotions evident in discussions Monday night, there was also an unmistakable political flavor to the proceedings as several speakers made references to the March 8 municipal elections in which every member of the council except Georgia Grove is on the ballot. Some of the citizen participants Monday night are also candidates. James Lattin is running for the City Council in Wright's district, and Henry Cole is an announced candidate for the mayor's post.

La Verne fire under investigation

The cause of a $45,000 fire in La Verne shortly before noon Monday remains under investigation today.

Fire started in the two-story home occupied by the Edward Rael family at 2531 Bowdoin St., at 11:45 a.m.

Fire had spread throughout the home when La Verne firefighters, led by Chief Robert Lapp, arrived. Officials said the fire appears to have started in a bedroom.

The fire burned through the roof and smoke arising from the fire was visible throughout the valley.

Dr. L.A. Vadheim of Pomona owns the older home located in a grove north of Foothill Boulevard.

Upland district to introduce superintendent

The new superintendent of the Upland School District will be introduced tonight during a meeting of the Upland school board.

Acting Supt. Glenn Hardy said the superintendent will be introduced about 7:45 p.m., following an executive board session. His identity has not been revealed to the public.

The meeting will be held at the Baldy View School's multipurpose room, 979 W. 11th St.

The new superintendent will replace Bill Plaster, who resigned last spring to take a similar job at Fountain Valley.

Shock victim dies of injuries

A Hacienda Heights man, severely shocked Saturday when a citizens' band radio antenna he and a friend were removing accidentally brushed against a high-voltage power line, died Monday afternoon of his injuries.

The victim, Jerry Horn, 42 years old, died shortly after 2:30 p.m. He had been in critical condition at Queen of the Valley Hospital, West Covina, since the accident.

Meanwhile, the other victim, Patrick Radecker, 36, was reported in improving condition at the hospital.

Sheriff's deputies said the pair was removing an aerial 30 feet tall from the roof of Horn's home at 1422 Sharlemont Ave. when the aerial was swept by high winds against a 6,900-volt power line. Both men were knocked unconscious but were revived by county fire department paramedics after about 30 minutes.

Fire destroys abandoned car

A 1974 automobile, valued at $4,500 and believed stolen, was destroyed by fire Monday at 8:56 p.m. in a field at Philadelphia Avenue and Dudley Street in Pomona.

Fire Chief John M. Fowlkes said the automobile was registered to Billy Ray Norton of 14631 San Bruno Ave., La Mirada.

Fowlkes said the fire was reported by John Calderon who saw the flames from the freeway and reported a grass fire. Firemen arrived to find the automobile fully involved in flames.

Fowlkes said it obviously was an abandoned vehicle.

La Verne mobile home park owners confront tenants

By BOB NAGEY
PB Staff Writer

Mobile home park owners clashed with their tenants Monday night over whether the City of La Verne should pass a law to control rent.

The tenants claimed they were being "gouged" with excessive monthly payments for the spaces they leased at the parks; the operators contended they were barely making a profit.

The City Council, which had called for the special public hearing, sidestepped immediate decision and promised to take all the testimony under advisement.

Approximately 350 persons shivered through a 1½-hour town meeting in drafty Founders Hall auditorium of La Verne College, probably the largest attendance at a council session in La Verne. Mayor Mike M. Morales, his teeth noticeably chattering, said the auditorium was the only place in the city that could hold so many persons.

More than 20 persons, most of them mobile home owners or representatives, gave testimony before the council.

Timothy Tierney of Century City, an attorney who said he represented three of the city's seven mobile home park owners, contended that there was a question whether the city had the legal power to pass a rent control law in the first place.

He claimed that even if the legal right existed, the city had no grounds on which to base the law: the rents charged by the La Verne mobile home parks were not out of line with charges in other nearby communities, and besides there was no shortage of housing in the valley, a necessary prerequisite to a rent control law, he maintained.

He admitted that the increases were appreciable during the past three years but claimed they were necessary because of higher taxes, additional water and sewage charges and increasing trash collection fees.

There was a noticeable groan from those in attendance when Tierney declared that the money had bought improvements at the park and that as a result some of the mobile homes increased in value by 50 to 100 per cent.

Jim Brouwer, a spokesman for the tenants, gave the council petitions bearing 1,188 signatures — about half the mobile home park population of the city — and charged that at least one mobile home park operator, had refused the tenants permission to collect names under threat of legal action.

Several mobile home park tenants charged their rents had gone up 50 to 67 per cent over the past three years, while in some cases taxes on the parks had declined during the same period.

But Stanley Dashew, owner of The Fountains, told the council that the rental hikes were necessary and reasonable. He said The Fountains had returned only a three per cent profit during the past year.

And Bob Donham, owner of the La Verne Mobile Country Club, contended that the whole squabble over rent was a "lack of communication" and invited the tenants in his park to set up a committee to meet with him.

The tenants piled documents upon the council table showing how much their leases had gone up in comparison with the national cost of living index, but, according to Councilman Melvin Belcher, there was not enough information from the owners. He invited the owners to document their cases also.

Belcher said he has made an informal study of conditions in mobile home parks between Hacienda Heights and Chino, and felt the rent charged in La Verne "was not that much out of line." He said there had to be some additional reasons for passing a rent control law.

And Councilman Allan Mackay said that before the council made a decision on the proposal it should consider all rentals in the city, including apartment units.

The council promised the mobile home park tenants that it would consider the testimony and make a decision in the near future.

S.B. supervisors, press battle over meeting time

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

A battle is shaping up between the press and the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors over a proposal to change the board's regular meeting day from Monday to Tuesday.

Newly-elected board Chairman Robert Townsend of Chino proposed the change to allow supervisors more preparation time before the weekly meeting.

However, it ran into strong opposition from a number of weekly newspapers, which would be unable to meet Tuesday noon deadlines for their Wednesday publications.

The board, on a split 3-2 vote Monday, tentatively approved the ordinance that would change the meeting day to Tuesday at 9 a.m. But indications were that the ordinance may not pass when it comes up for final approval next Monday. Supervisor Joe Kamansky of Upland, who voted in favor of the change, later told a reporter, "Don't count on it."

Townsend and Kamansky received support for the change from new Supervisor Robert Hammock — but Supervisors James Mayfield and Dennis Hansberger opposed it.

Mayfield said eight of 14 weekly papers in his desert district opposed the change "as practically nullifying their chance to obtain timely county news."

Hansberger explained that if the Tuesday meeting day is approved, the papers would have to wait until the following week to publish their articles. "And there's nothing deader than an old news story."

Mayfield noted that if regular meetings are held on Tuesday, there may be "spillover" into Wednesday when other county boards such as the Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) have meetings.

Townsend and Kamansky did not express much concern for problems of the weekly papers. "We are one of the few counties in the state still meeting on Mondays," said Townsend. "Media in other counties have no problems with Tuesday. It may be incumbent on the weeklies in our county to change their deadline."

He added that, "I feel we can do a better job of preparation before the meeting if it was held Tuesday."

It was noted that supervisors receive their agendas late Thursday for a Monday meeting and Friday has been the only day possible for preparation. Some staff reports aren't available until Monday morning, cutting off time for review.

But Mayfield said, "We should work harder on Fridays and over weekends on 'homework.' "

Kamansky stated that Monday would be a good preparation day. "If the news media in some areas are affected, I'm sorry."

Later, Kamansky noted the constituents would be better served if the supervisors were prepared in advance for meetings. "That's more important than a little problem with press deadlines."

Kamansky suggested a public information officer could help the media in regard to meeting deadlines.

Hammock, obviously the swing vote on the issue, did not express strong feelings one way or the other. He indicated he was unsure as to what was beneficial to him or his constituents. "But I'm willing to support the change. We'll have to wait and see what the effects are."

County Administrative Officer Earl Goodwin noted a public information officer could prepare materials before meetings for the press in order to meet deadlines.

But Hansberger said, "All of us would like to handfeed the press but I don't feel that's the kind of press we all want."

Hammock added, "We're talking about packaging news . . . that's kind of scary."

Charles Nennig of the county press service objected strongly to the board over the proposed Tuesday meeting day, which, he said, "may put me out of business." Nennig, who serves three weeklies, a daily paper and a radio station in the county, would miss his Tuesday deadlines if the meetings were changed.

Ontario's Grefco Inc. holds opening ceremonies

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

The efforts of city, county and company officials for the past two years concluded Monday with the opening ceremonies and luncheon of Grefco Inc. in Ontario.

The building products division of Grefco, a wholly owned subsidiary of General Refractories Co. of Philadelphia, feted more than 200 persons to tours, information forums and a luncheon and program at its new facility at the San Bernardino Freeway and Haven Avenue.

The plant is located on 40 acres, 25 of which are paved, and 180,000 square feet of the plant is under roof.

Richard Funk, vice president and general manager of Grefco, described the two minerals, perlite and dicalite, manufactured into products there as the "unknown products that touch your life everyday."

Although most of the general public is unaware of the products, it is well acquainted with materials that the minerals are applied to.

Dicalite is used as a filtering agent for champagne, wine, beer and antibodies; and is contained in flat paint and automobile paint.

Permalite is even more widely used and is an ingredient in plastic, materials for growing flowers and plants, acoustical tile, insulation products and oil spill control products. In the case of the latter, the permalite absorbs oil and rejects water. It is also used in fireproofing various building materials.

The Ontario plant will recycle approximately 10,000 tons of waste paper annually in creating perlite roof insulation boards. Government and industrial officials described the operation as "ecological" because it will not pollute the environment and is designed to recycle materials that normally pollute.

Additionally, the insulation board prevents heat loss or gain, saves energy and reduces air conditioning equipment costs in commercial, industrial, institutional and governmental structures.

Funk said the Ontario plant "is an insulating, fireproofing and pollution control plant that will improve the world we live in."

Joseph G. Solari, chairman of the board of General Refractories Co., said that the Ontario plant employs 65 persons now and that number will increase to 80 within a few months. At full operation, 125 persons will be employed from the local area and the payroll will be in excess of $1 million annually.

Forget about arms cutbacks

John F. Kennedy campaigned heavily in 1960 on the theme that a "missile gap" had been permitted to develop between the United States and the Soviet Union.

Following his election and inauguration, the gap strangely vanished — or rather, it was discovered that the Soviets were actually on the lower end of it.

Jimmy Carter campaigned lightly in 1976 on the theme that economies in the nation's defense budget might save something like $5 billion out of current spending.

Since his election, but even before his inauguration, not only has the $5 billion evaporated but an updated version of the "missile gap" has suddenly become one of the most urgent problems that the new president will face.

There has in recent weeks been a veritable deluge of reports, claims and warnings about imminent or actual Soviet military superiority in missiles and everything else.

For instance, the latest edition of "Jane's All the World's Aircraft," a name which is inevitably preceded by the adjective " authoritative, " finds that the United States is falling so far behind the Soviets in air power that, in the event of war, we might have to resort immediately to nuclear weapons or face defeat.

"Jane's" urges that production of the B-1 bomber is "absolutely essential" to counter the growing fleet of long-range Soviet bombers — though it is not quite clear how a plane that is designed to deliver nuclear bombs to the enemy's homeland would be of much service in the initial, conventional weapon stage of a war.

The equally authoritative "Jane's Weapons Systems" warns that the Soviets may already have a counterpart to the U.S. Navy's highly sophisticated Tomahawk cruise missile that could "threaten the delicate strategic balance."

Even more pessimistic is Maj. Gen. George J. Keegan Jr., who retired the other day as Air Force chief of intelligence.

The Soviet Union has already achieved military superiority over the United States, he believes, and its civil defense shelter, food stockpiling and missile site hardening programs are so far advanced that the Kremlin not only has decided it could survive a nuclear war but is preparing for one.

"The greatest global conflict in history is likely to occur in the next decade or two" unless the Western alliance begins investing more in the prudent modernization of its defenses, says Keegan.

Even discounting the natural tendency of military men and people connected with the military to overstate a potential enemy's strength, enough evidence has accumulated from other sources to support the contention that a very real gap has developed between the two superpowers, and that this time the United States is on the wrong side of it.

On this question of national security, however, it is interesting to note another report recently in the news. For something like a year and a half, it is said, the United States knew the position and movements of the Soviet Union's nuclear submarine fleet, thanks to information salvaged from a sunken Soviet sub on the Pacific floor.

If so, then for this period the United States may have enjoyed greater military security than it has known since the days when it held the patent on the atom bomb. Yet it did the American people little good because they were unaware of it.

In other words, the question is, what is real security and how do we know when we have it? Can it, indeed, ever be achieved?

The only answer is that the prudent course is to err on the side of caution. Thus at the very least, we will likely see an early Carter administration decision to go ahead with the B-1.

Certainly, we can forget about that evanescent $5 billion defense savings.

Thoughts

"And other seeds fell into good soil and brought forth grain, growing up and increasing and yielding thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold." And he said, "He who has ears to hear, let him hear." — Mark 4:8,9.

"Great men speak to us only so far as we have ears and souls to hear them; only so far as we have in us the roots, at least, of that which flowers out in them." — Will Durant; American historian.

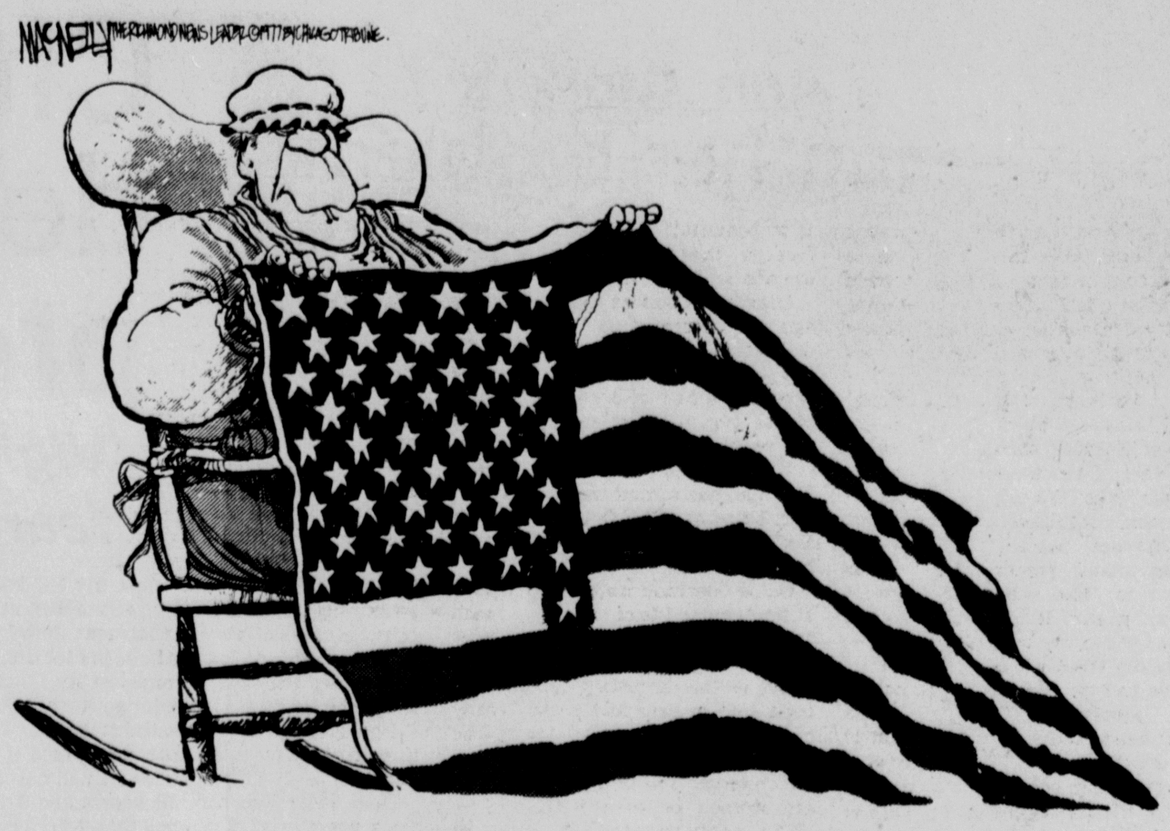

Keep your tongue from evil, and your lips from speaking deceit. Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it. — Psalm 34:13,14.

"The greatest evils, are from within us; and from ourselves also we must look for the greatest good." — Jeremy Taylor, English bishop and author.

"Truly I say to you, this generation will not pass away till all has taken place. Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away." — Luke 21:32,33

"Empires built on force will always be destroyed. Those built on trust in Christ will remain." — Joseph R. Sizoo, American clergyman.

The public forum

On women priests

Dear Editor:

In the Jan. 5 Public Forum column, W. Hamilton Aulenbach of Claremont wrote that the Episcopal Church is not threatened because of the ordination of women priests.

He makes mention of the fact that Episcopalians United "has actually made contact with the Pope to acquaint him with their opposition and that if the Pope does respond he'll be obliged to remind the group that within the Roman Catholic Church there is a growing number who strongly favor women as ordained priests."

Pope Paul VI, in his letter of Nov. 30, 1975 to Dr. Frederick Donald Coggan, Archbishop of Canterbury, has written: "Your Grace is of course well aware of the Catholic Church's position on this question (women priests) that it is not admissible to ordain women to the priesthood for very fundamental reasons.

"These reasons include: the example recorded in the Sacred Scriptures of Christ choosing his Apostles only from among men; the constant practice of the Church, which has imitated Christ in choosing only men; and her living teaching authority which has consistently held that the exclusion of women from the priesthood is in accordance with God's plan for his Church."

Again on March 23, 1976 Pope Paul wrote: "Our affection for the Anglican Communion has for many years been strong, and we always nourished and often expressed ardent hopes that the Holy Spirit would lead us, in love and in obedience to God's will, along the path of reconciliation. This must be the measure of the sadness with which we encounter so grave a new obstacle and threat on that path."

These letters were made public during the course of the General Synod of the Church of England which was held recently at York University.

Sino-Soviet border disputes

HONGKONG — It was a map of an obscure stretch of the Chinese-Russian border that finally persuaded Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to open the door to China.

Although then-President Richard Nixon had raised the idea, Kissinger didn't think seriously about a detente with China until shooting broke out between Chinese and Russian border troops back in March, 1969.

The incident occurred on Chenpao Island in the Ussuri River, which flows between Soviet Siberia and Chinese Manchuria. Kissinger called for a map of the area. He noticed that the clash had occurred five miles from a Soviet railhead but 50 miles from a Chinese terminal, he told us.

Kissinger immediately concluded that the Chinese would never have provoked an incident so far from their supply line. He decided, therefore, that the Russians had started the shooting and that the Chinese would welcome a U.S. approach.

Today, the 5,000-mile border is quiet but tense. The intelligence reports are conflicting about the degree of hostility between Chinese and Russian border troops. Apparently, this depends largely upon the local commanders. But no serious incidents have been reported in the past few months.

The best U.S. estimate is that the Soviets have 45 divisions, seven of them armored, on their Chinese frontier. Several menacing air and missile units are also deployed along the border. The total Soviet force facing China is estimated at 800,000.

According to our sources, the Chinese don't consider this to be a large enough force to invade China. They believe the Soviets would have to transfer troops from the European front. This could be detected by satellites, the Chinese believe, in time for them to strengthen their defenses.

In the opinion of U.S. experts, the Chinese would be no match for the Russians on the battlefield. The Chinese would be forced to fight largely with obsolescent weapons — recoilless rifles against tanks, inferior fighter planes against modern MIG-23s, masses of infantry against machines.

The Chinese have tested nuclear devices, with a four-megaton bang. But the ballistic missiles available to deliver the nuclear warheads are a decade behind the Soviet models.

Nevertheless, the Chinese commanders reportedly believe that the old strategies, which Mao Tse-tung used to win the mainland, would defeat an invading force. Mao looked upon the Chinese populace as a sea which, in the end, would drown the invaders. By his book, the Chinese would draw the enemy forces deep into the sea and then overwhelm them with humanity.

Mao summed up his battlefield tactics succinctly in these words: "Enemy advances, we retreat. Enemy halts, we harass. Enemy tires, we attack. Enemy retreats, we pursue."

U.S. military strategists are skeptical, however, that the Soviets would mount the kind of invasion the Chinese are anticipating. In any war between the two Communist titans, it is more likely that the Soviets would use their superior missile power to wipe out China's nuclear capability.

The only possible invasion, in the opinion of these experts, would be a "surgical strike" against specific targets. Under an umbrella of planes and behind a spearhead of tanks, the Soviets might drive against Sinkiang's nuclear facilities or Manchuria's industrial centers.

A confidential intelligence analysis suggests, meanwhile, that the Chinese commanders hope to avoid a military confrontation with Russia. This attitude could lead eventually to a Sino-Soviet detente. For it is now clear that the new government in Peking is backed by the army.

In fact, our sources contend that the real power in Peking is held by the senior military commanders. They played a pivotal part in the arrest of Chiang Ching, the widow of Mao Tse-tung, and three other Maoists in the Politburo. Our sources have gone so far as to describe the event as a "military coup."

It was executed by Che'n Hsi-lien, the commander of the Peking garrison, who is now regarded by our sources as the most powerful man in China. His superior, Defense Minister Yeh Chien-ying, is in poor health and, therefore, is more of a front man.

The army anticipated a possible uprising after the October 6 move against the "gang of four," as Madame Chiang and her three cohorts are now called. They controlled the militia, which could have been called into the streets.

The most dangerous spot was Shanghai, the stronghold of the Maoists. So Shanghai party leader Ma Tien-shui and Shanghai garrison commander Chou Chun-lin were summoned to Peking. They suspected foul play and arranged a code to alert their colleagues. A telephone call from Peking, complaining of a "stomach ache" would mean the pragmatists had taken control. A call about a "heart attack" would mean the Maoist leaders were in serious trouble.

Welfare shrinks in Texas

Nationally, welfare rolls continue to increase twice as fast as our population is increasing.

Nationally, an increasing percentage of Americans are making welfare "a way of life" after having been three or more generations living on government handouts.

New York is trying to supply some kind of financial assistance to 80 percent of its "poor people."

But in one state welfare rolls are shrinking.

Let's see how they're doing it in Texas.

Texas has approximately the same number of "poor people" as New York yet only 18 percent of them are getting welfare aid — and even these are averaging only about $1 per person per day.

Where other states try to help every family with less than an income of $5,500 a year, Texas offers no help until the family income is about half that.

And using this tough approach, the welfare program in Texas is on such a sound financial footing that it will spend this year $40 million less than its legislative allowance for food stamps and aid to dependent children.

The Texas Constitution limits state cash assistance to $80 million but this year Texas won't spend half that much.

In the past five years, welfare's share of the Texas state budget has declined from 20 cents of every dollar — to 16 cents.

So Texas taxpayers carry a lesser burden.

In New York City last year the average taxpayer had to kick in $159 to the welfare kitty; the average Chicagoan was taxed $170 for that purpose, while a Detroit taxpayer paid $222 to support welfare recipients.

But in Houston, the average taxpayer was taxed for that same purpose only $15.93. And Texas' Welfare Department operates a tight ship, sends less than 2 1/2 percent mistakenly to persons who are ineligible.

In Massachusetts more than 12 percent; in Ohio more than 13 percent of all welfare checks go to "ineligibles."

In many states welfare pays better than working. Not in Texas. A Texas family of four with no other income can expect at most $140 a month.

That means that in Texas poor people are poor people, eager to accept jobs. So "unemployment" in Texas — even in border areas — is consistently less than the national average.

Bill Clayton, speaker of the Texas House of Representatives, says, "High support payments discourage incentive. And incentive is the only way we have to break the poverty cycle."

And Texas has broken the cycle. Texans stay on welfare an average 11 months; New Yorkers 34 months.

And 40 percent of the Texans who leave welfare do so to take a job.

Just in jest

What some landlords will do to popularize condominium living should, at the very least, assure them of a listing in the Advertising Hall of Fame. And for 1976, I would certainly nominate a condominium owner in Austin, Tex., for such an honor. He has created an original, and certainly a fearless new sales approach by advertising his property as a "NUDE LIVING VILLA COMPLEX." — However, just to be on the safe side and to prevent any chance of being accused of discrimination, he has added in small type a footnote which reads: "Clothing Optional."

Down through the years, if we Americans have said it once we have said it millions and millions of times: "Competition is the life of trade." — Which is just another example of how adept we are at talking out of both sides of our mouths at once. For while we are so smugly mouthing that ancient shibboleth about competition, most of us are also bitterly complaining that we can't compete in the world market without government price supports on the produce we grow and the products we create.

Women's lib and nonsense

By EARL G. WATERS

The efforts by women libbers to change the English language under the banner of achieving equality has gone beyond the pale and ceases to be amusing. There is a great difference between equality and nonsense.

It cannot be denied that women have suffered discrimination in certain matters. But their contention that this has been the result of men dominating public office is just as much sheer nonsense as their clamor for neuter titles for those offices and general elimination of genders.

Most of the discriminatory practices adversely affecting women are not because of laws, although it might be said some of them were made possible by the lack of prohibitory laws. Thus the inability to get equal pay for equal work, equal opportunities for promotion and employment in high level positions, equal treatment in credit and other financial dealings such as leases and home mortgages, stem from arbitrary decisions by private industry. Most of that has now been corrected, as much as possible, by statutes.

As for prior laws there had always been a tendency towards gallantry to the weaker sex in lawmaking because the lawmakers were men. That many of the laws discriminated against men is something women are now learning to their dismay as the result of reaction to the overkill efforts of the women libbers. Such laws granting special protection to women such as minimum wages, overtime pay and maximum hours of work and mandatory rest periods, are now being challenged and failing the equal rights test for the men. Alimony, once the exclusive right of women, has now been ruled by the courts to be available to men as well.

Until the women libbers raised all the fuss the men didn't seem to mind giving the females a little break in the laws here and there. And, to the extent that laws were needed to guarantee them equal treatment in matters of clear importance, they were unhesitatingly supported by the men.

It is when it became apparent that equality was defined by the women libber as "preferential treatment" that the rub came. Adding to the irritation have been the asinine efforts for meaningless changes in the language.

At first it was the pressure to substitute a non-word "Ms" for Miss or Mrs. The argument was that no similar distinction in word useage was available for men, as if that ever stopped any woman from finding out in the first minute of conversation whether or not a man was married. In charging that such designations were the result of male chauvinism the women made themselves the quintessence of sexism.

The silliest crusade of the libbers has been that of trying to change the useage of "he" or "she" to "person" as well as certain titles. Thus "chairman" becomes "chairperson" and "mailman" becomes "postal person." The latest is the attempt by the women to change "Assemblyman" to "Assemblyperson."

Certain titles, such as chairman, are sexless through long useage. The very fact that, in parliamentary procedure, one addresses the chairman as "Mr." or "Madame chairman" proves that. It would seem Assemblyman would fall into that same category as does Senator or President.

That women legislators have nothing more important on their minds than worrying about such small matters provokes the thought that maybe that is why so few get elected. If this kind of nonsense isn't soon stopped the next thing will be to change "woman" to "woperson" and "female" to "feperson." Whether the women libbers, who may want to be sexless, like it or not there are many cogent reasons for word useage distinguishing sex and there is no good reason to rewrite all the laws to change titles which by long custom are sexless in their true meaning.

From this view the offering of a chair, opening of a door, tipping of the hat, and sending roses still has a firm place in the relationships between a man and a lady. Long live chivalry!

Dr. Miller

Pills no answer to pet behavior

DEAR DR. MILLER: Rigor is a happy rat. A great pet. Mortis, his brother, he's usually mad about something. He's such a spoilsport, he's no fun to be around. Is there something I can give him, like tranquilizers maybe, to improve his disposition? — B.E.

DEAR B.E.: Mortis' mad-on might be modified by a happy pill, for the moment. The trouble with tranquilizers for pets, though, is that their main tranquilizing effect is via sedation. Keeping a patient pettable by keeping it half-asleep causes other physical problems sooner or later, usually sooner. Unless the behavioral problem is a short-term one (or by modification of the environment it can be made short-term) tranquilizers don't usually justify the risks involved in their use. Before too long, chemical modifiers for behavior will be available (such as polypeptides) which can modify behavior much more effectively than current tranquilizers. Unless Rigor and Mortis are mighty young rats, however, these new "magic" mood modifiers may arrive on the scene a bit too late.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Zonk sleeps most of the time on the back porch, where I can watch him sleeping through the kitchen window. Sometimes when it's really miserable outside, Zonk's allowed in by the fireplace and sleeps there. Seems to me he sleeps more soundly out on the porch. By the fire there's a lot more muzzle and leg twitching and that sort of thing. How come he sleeps better on the back porch? — K.E.

DEAR K.E.: Zonk would tend to sleep more soundly on the porch, since temperature partly determines how sleep time is divided. With a lower external temperature, he'd spend more time in slow-wave (deep) sleep. At this stage, the hypothalamus portion of the brain can regulate body temperature against the cold without reducing total sleep time. Conversely, when Zonk is conked out by the fire, he'd spend more time in paradoxical (REM) sleep, wherein dreaming occurs. During REM sleep, the hypothalamus can't increase body metabolism to cope with temperature change — and doesn't have to. With the extra warmth, the body can afford to get by without increasing metabolic activity for warming purposes. Your observations are correct. Your dog does dream more by the fire.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's unlike you to depend too heavily on others. However, today you may do just that and be severely disappointed. Be realistic as to whom you can rely upon.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you don't think your moves through carefully today you're going to make things harder for yourself. Careful planning lightens the burden.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Watch out for salesman types today who promise you the moon. You could end up with the sizzle and not the steak.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A matter you're anxious to conclude may not be as easy to finalize as you anticipate. A strong second effort will be required.

LEO (July 23-Aug 22) Time may be taken from your routine today to help another. Although you won't welcome the intrusion, you'll still do it out of the goodness of your heart.

VIRGO (Aug 23-Sept 22) Pleasurable whims carry a high price tag today. Going on a spending spree will cause you buyer's remorse later.

LIBRA (Sept 23-Oct 23) Don't air family problems in public today. Outsiders will be of small or no help — and you could cause them embarrassment if they feel forced to take sides.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22) Usually you're a rather private person. Today, you have a tendency to tell tales out of school. You could regret talking too impulsively.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec 21) Casual acquaintances will fare better from your generosity today than will persons to whom you're really indebted. Get your priorities in order.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 19) When you find others in opposition to your ideas today, back off. Once they have their say you can turn them to your way of thinking.

AQUARIUS (Jan 20-Feb 19) Hunches are far less reliable than your logic today. Base decisions upon visible evidence — not on insights.

PISCES (Feb 20-March 20) Before linking up with anyone in a joint venture today, be sure their aims are equally idealistic. A selfish associate could cause problems.

Ann Landers

Gardening her problem, too?

Dear Ann Landers: It seems everybody takes their problems to you sooner or later so I've decided to join The Club. I realize gardening isn't your field but you seem to know experts all over and hopefully you can helpe.

You've heard of a green thumb? Well, I have a black thumb. Every flower, plant, shrub or growing vegetable I touch seems to die. My neighbors on both sides have wonderful luck with their auratum lilies, moss roses, pansies and daffodils. Their indoor plants thrive. Their lawns are like velvet. My flowers never make it. My plants are pathetic and my lawn is a disgrace. Even my trees get odd diseases.

I've had two florists come look at my "problems." They just shook their heads and said, "You ought to try another hobby." I love growing things and am not going to give up so easily. Please suggest something. — Typhoid Mary

Dear Mary: Don't despair. Help is on the way. A charming and informative book, "First Garden" by C.Z. Guest will tell you exactly what you need to know. The publisher is Putnam and the price is $8.95. The book is so beautifully illustrated by Cecil Beaton that people with green thumbs will love it!

Dear Ann Landers: Several weeks ago you described as "revolting" a doll which, when its arm is twisted, swells up in certain places and produces a pair of breasts. Will you please comment on another one of the year's most profitable "toys"?

The ad for this horror says, "Uncle Sherman has something to tell you." It is billed as "The Original Flasher Doll" and sells for — would you believe — $20?

Uncle Sherman isn't much to look at but a quick lift of his beige trench coat is sure to startle the most sophisticated of viewers. At least 50,000 of the disgusting things have been sold to date and the company can't keep up with the orders. The retailers say the doll is definitely not for children. The biggest customers are women between 30 and 40 — "The sophisticated segment of society," according to one of the largest sources. Please Comment. — Irked in Texas

Dear I.: If that's sophistication, I'm a left-handed pitcher for the Oakland A's. Sorry to learn there were so many morons loose with $20 bills.

Dear Ann: Usually parents write and ask what to do with their teenagers. Well, here's a switch. I'm a teenage girl who wants to know what to do about my father.

In his younger days, Dad had a great physique. He was the type who had snapshots of himself taken at the beach with a girl on each shoulder and two at his feet.

I'm afraid Dad doesn't realize how much beer has gone down the hatch since he posed at Santa Monica. When he sits around the house in his swimming trunks and my girl friends come over I get very embarrassed. Mom doesn't like it either. Sometimes she says, "Frank, go put your robe on." He pays no attention.

Dad is a great guy but this one thing bothers me a lot. What can I do about it? — It's The Pits

Dear Pits: You can tell your dad (in a sweet way, of course) that you wouldn't sit in the living room in your bikini when HE has guests and you'd appreciate the same consideration. Then ask your mom to buy him a sharp-looking terrycloth robe. And hope for the best.

50th wedding anniversaries

You hear a lot of talk these days about the marriages that don't last.

One of my favorite parts of the newspaper is the section devoted to couples celebrating their 50th wedding anniversaries.

Some of the photographs reflect embarrassment over the fuss being made. Some show them standing three feet apart. Some husbands and wives even look alike.

But the part I like best is where they sum up their lives together. The other day I read where one couple said, "We've hauled water by horse and wagon, coped with the cold and the deep snow, raised and educated a family of ten, and lost a daughter, Virginia."

That's 50 years of living — condensed in 27 words.

You have to wonder. Were there other moments? Did they hang wallpaper together? Argue about who slept next to the wall? Toast a no-baby month? Become jealous over a guidance counselor?

Did she get sick of his same joke year after year? Did he tire of hearing about her arthritis? Did they wonder about their future together the year he taught her how to drive? The year his mother babysat and cleaned her oven? Was he cheap? Was she boring?

Did he have an annoying habit of picking his teeth with his tongue and making a clicking noise that drove her up the wall? Did she say every night for 30 years when he walked through the front door, "Is that you?"

Did they really love one another through fevers, flu, fatness, nausea, irritability and sarcasm — or did they just hang on?

Did they disappoint one another when the baby died, when he lost his job, or when she felt neglected?

Did she ever know he hated peppers in his meat loaf and she had put peppers in the meat loaf for 50 years? Did he ever suspect she hated houseslippers without heels, but buy them every Christmas?

Ten children . . . that's a lot of shoes, a lifetime of overbites, an eternity of "Can I's?" . . . endless evenings of PTA's, an uninterrupted span of "We've got the children to think about."

Golden anniversaries — like the metal — are very precious in this country. Pound for pound, they outclass everything else.

How do they do it? Different ways. As one golden celebrant replied when he was asked how he held on so long, "I have hopes of getting in the last word."

Dr. Lamb

Red nose due to many things

DEAR DR. LAMB — In the last two years I have noticed that the complexion of my nose has become red in appearance, and it has increased in size. I also have three to four visible veins at the bridge of my nose. It has become a concern to me and is giving me an inferiority complex because of my physical appearance.

I'm 62 years old, 6 feet 3 and weigh 210 pounds. I take Hydrofiuril, and my blood pressure is now satisfactory. I asked my doctor if the change in my nose is from high blood pressure, and he informed me it was due to alcohol.

I do not classify myself as a drinker. We have our four or five social parties each year; we have our drinks, but that is the extent of it. I was disappointed in the doctor's answer. On my last visit he looked at my nose and asked if I drink beer. I told him I drink very little beer as I am not fond of it. He didn't say anymore.

Do you have any information for me? I am not getting anywhere this way.

DEAR READER — You must have a condition called rosacea. When it involves the nose, it can become large and red, with a pitted skin and may even become a long pendulated, lobulated mass. This is a complication of rosacea, which is reddening of the skin over the face with dilitation of small blood vessels. It is more common in women and more severe in men. One of several factors that cause it is alcohol. That is why your doctor has centered on that, but many cases occur in people who do not drink at all.

The condition usually begins with small dilated blood vessels apparent over the face with a reddened complexion. It may never involve the nose. It may be related to using too much cleansing cream which may be why women have it more often. It can be associated with too much hot coffee, alcohol or spices, in short the things that dilate the small blood vessels. The change in circulation through the skin leads to the other changes.

I think you should ask you doctor to refer you to a dermatologist. In early cases involving the face, tetracycline pills (an antibiotic) taken daily seem to help stop the process. The reason for its action is not entirely clear. You will have a special problem here because Hydrodiuril is a diuretic, and tetracyclines interact with it to cause a rise in the level of blood urea to significant levels. There may be some problems in treating both your high blood pressure and rosacea at the same time. You may need to mention this to your dermatologist.

In the early stages the changes in the blood vessels in the nose can be treated with electrolysis. A small needle placed in the superficial vessels destroys them and helps stop the process. Later tetracyclines do not help and the condition is too far advanced for electrolysis. In these cases it may be necessary to surgically remove the markedly deformed skin over the nose. A good plastic surgeon can usually do a remarkable job of improving the condition.

Rosacea may be associated with the development of acne of the nose, but the two conditions are different. Those who want information on the common acne problem can send 50 cents for The Health Letter number 8-2, Acne Can Be Treated. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

There is a real blunder in the play of today's hand. A real blunder, but of the sort that almost everyone makes.

South won the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, led the six of hearts and finessed his queen. The finesse worked, but West dropped the jack. Now South couldn't lay down his ace and concede one trump trick. He had to lead a low heart to dummy's 10.

East took his king and led out the ace-king of spades.

South ruffed the second spade; entered dummy with the queen of diamonds; led the eight of hearts and let it ride after East played low. Now he tried to get back to his hand with a diamond, but East ruffed for the third defensive trick. South still had to lose a club and his contract.

Do you see where South made his blunder?

It was at trick two. He led the six of hearts from dummy. If he had led the eight when it came time to play that third trump from dummy he would have been leading the six. Then he could overtake with his seven, pluck East's last trump and chalk up the game.

Ask the Jacobys

A Mississippi reader asks what happens when the first defender fails to follow to the suit led by declarer, but discovers the error after dummy and the other defender have followed to the trick.

The answer is that the player announces, "I could have followed suit." Declarer may now demand that the offender play her highest or lowest card and then change the card played from dummy if he so desires. As for the other opponent, his card remains as played.

MUSICAL TRICK

Symphonic musicians, too, play tricks. If they want to, they can knock their conductor right off his podium, either forwards or backwards, without actually touching him. And they've done it to just about every big-name orchestra leader in the world. Here's how: The score calls for crescendo. The music builds towards the climax. The maestro, utterly concentrated, signals the terrific downbeat. It's met with absolute silence. By plan, the humorous musicians froze. And there goes the conductor, zap, flat on his face. If they want him to fall backwards, they do their nothing thing on an upbeat.

Q. "WHERE DO SPONGES COME FROM?"

RICHARD WAITE
CHULA VISTA, CA

A. TRUE SPONGES ARE SIMPLE WATER ANIMALS THAT LIVE IN SEAS ALL OVER THE WORLD. THE "SPONGES" WE USE FOR CLEANING ARE REALLY THE SOFT SKELETONS OF SPONGES.

DICK ROMERO
© 1977 by NEA, Inc. T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off. 1/11

Many sponges we use are made of a synthetic material to look and clean like true sponges.

But if you should ever use a true sponge, you will be using the soft skeleton of a simple animal that once lived in the sea.

Sponges don't look like other animals. A sponge has no head or mouth. The sponge acts like a living filter by straining out bits of food matter from the water currents flowing through holes scattered over its body.

New sponges may come from eggs. When a sponge egg hatches, the tiny animal swims about for a while. Soon it settles down on a rock or a shell and begins to grow. For the rest of its life, it stays in the same place, much like a plant. A new sponge may also grow from a piece cut off another sponge. Sponges grow in many shapes and colors. Some look like fans. Others look like cups and vases. Some sponges grow in fresh water, but most live in warm seas.

Cal Poly to stage O'Neill's 'Hughie'

The Cal Poly drama department will present Eugene O'Neill's long one-act play, "Hughie," in the Studio Theater at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday and Jan. 20-22.

"Hughie" is the only completed play of a projected cycle of one-act plays. It was written in 1940 but not performed until after O'Neill's death. It had a world premiere in Stockholm in 1958 and opened in New York in 1964 starring Jason Robards, and toured the country in 1974 with Ben Gazarra in the leading role.

"Hughie" is a glimpse into the life of Erie Smith, a small-time gambler and spinner of tales. He is returning from a five-day drunk, mourning the death of Hughie, the night clerk of the run-down hotel where Erie lives. Hughie had been his sounding board, his looking-glass which gave him the reflection of the big shot he would have liked to have been. He meets the new night clerk, and a new relationship emerges from the old fantasies. The illusions unfold, and the play develops a sense of expanding discovery.

O'Neill, one of the great playwrights of the 20th Century, is the only playwright to have won four Pulitzer Prizes. He was also awarded a Nobel Prize in literature in 1936.

The Cal Poly production features Bill Cuddy, and Ed Longwill. It is directed by Dave Miller.

Miller was an assistant director last summer at the Santa Rosa Summer Repertory Theater and has appeared in Cal Poly's "The Rimers of Eldritch," "Merton of the Movies" and "The Fantastiks."

Art talk scheduled at Libra

Jean Milant, Los Angeles art gallery owner, will talk on the art market business in Libra Gallery of the Claremont Graduate School at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Admission is free.

The lecture is part of the Claremont Artist Series supported by the National Endowment for the Arts.

The gallery is at 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue.

Dumas novel in films

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two versions of Alexander Dumas' "The Man in the Iron Mask" will be available to Americans in 1977.

The first will appear on NBC Television Jan. 17 with Richard Chamberlain in the twin roles as King Louis XIV of France and his twin Philippe. The film was shot in France and England with Norman Rosemont as producer. The cast includes Patrick McGoohan, Louis Jourdan, Jenny Agutter, Ralph Richardson and Vivien Merchant.

Filming recently finished on "Behind the Iron Mask," directed by Ken Annakin in Austria. Beau Bridges plays the dual role in a cast that includes Rex Harrison, Olivia De Havilland, Sylvia Kristel, Ursula Andress, Lloyd Bridges, Cornel Wilde, Jose Ferrer and Alan Hale. The film will be released in theaters.

ENCHANTED EVENING — Karen Russikoff and Charles Carwford blend their voices in a romantic ballad in the Valley Community Theater production of "South Pacific." The Rodgers and Hammerstein musical is presented at the theater, 132 E. Third St., Pomona, at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Reservations can be made at 622-6954.

Gallery slates comedy tryouts

Gallery Theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, Ontario, will hold tryouts for the comedy, "The Impossible Years," from 3 to 5 p.m. Saturday.

There are parts for nine males ranging in age from 16 to 55 and five females from 13 to 45. The play tells of a psychiatrist writing a book on how to raise a teenage daughter successfully. Rehearsals begin next Tuesday with the production scheduled to open in the latter part of February.

Visitor survey

An in-depth visitor survey conducted by the American Museum of Natural History in New York City revealed that 58 per cent of all visitors come from outside the metropolitan area.

Currently playing at Gallery is the musical, "Oliver." The show goes at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays. Reservations can be made at 982-5357.

Holiday on Ice a family show

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

There are few spots for family entertainment left in our contemporary, fast-paced society, but Holiday on Ice 1977 offers an alternative to parents with young children.

The ice show, continuing through Sunday at the Forum in Inglewood, is the usual splash of color and lights. Although some of the pageantry is missing this year, it still provides a good outing for the family.

The disappointment of the evening is Diane de Leeuw, supposed star of the extravanganza and a 1976 Olympics silver medalist in skating. Her performance and presentation were stilted and limited and gained little applause from the audience.

The adagio pair of Cathy Mishkin and Don Bonacci stole the show from everyone else. The two, partners since childhood days, are smooth, graceful and confident with one another. They move as though they are two swans floating languidly across a magical lake. His lifts and swirls of her petite form are electrifying and offer rare moments of excellence in the show.

And the audience loved them, repaying their stupendous performances with repeated applause and shouts of bravo.

Other highlights of the show include Jackie Davis who enlivens the opening sequence with quick, jabbing slides; Hans Leiter, a strong skater who offers a skit of Bicentennial humor and as a bosomy madame in the second act; George "Gigi" Percelly and Steve Pedley as baggy pants comics in the slapstick style; a karate sequence with Jill Shipstad in an unusual and excellently delivered presentation complete with black light and the omnipotent voice of The Teacher reminiscent of Kung Fu; and the Sesame Street entourage that lit up the eyes and hearts of all the children.

Performances are Tuesday through Friday nights at 8; Saturday at 1, 5 and 9 p.m.; and Sunday at 2 and 6 p.m.

Scripps plans student recital

Pianists and vocalists will be featured in a student recital to be presented by the Scripps College music faculty in Pattison Hall at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday. Admission is free.

The recital, one of several scheduled throughout the year, gives students an opportunity to gain experience in performing before the public.

Performers will be pianists Julie Simon, Kathleen Ryan, Eleanor Yasui and Cynthia Hilts playing selections from Bartok, Mozart and Hindemith; and vocalists Jeralyn Glass, Cherry Caldwell, Sherry Baker and David Getts.

Catherine

The name Catherine means "pure" and comes from the Greek katharos, meaning "pure and unsullied."

Pomona in play by Inge

Pomona College will present "The Disposal," a one-act play by William Inge, in Room 13, Holmes Hall, at 8 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Admission is free.

The play deals with three prisoners on death row in a state prison.

HARASSMENT — Gilbert C. "Gib" Pitney points to bullet holes in the side of the drive-in restaurant he owns in Klamath Falls, Ore. Pitney, founder of an organization to fight vandalism and poaching in southern Oregon, has been the victim of harrassment for a year.

Poaching foe target of sniper

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (AP) — Last Tuesday, an anonymous phone caller told Gilbert C. "Gib" Pitney's wife, Estelle, "Tell Gib I just shot a hole through his place again and the next one is going through his head."

It was the latest in a series of harassments and threats against Pitney, the founder of an organization aimed at stopping poaching and vandalism in this southern Oregon county.

"It makes me work all the harder," Pitney said. "These assaults against me are not just personal but they are attacks against decency and society as a whole."

About a year ago, bullets ripped through a kitchen window in Pitney's drive-in restaurant.

Last July, a boulder and the decapitated head of a doe were thrown through a window in the same restaurant. The deer's legs and hide were found near the back door.

Then, last Tuesday, another gun shot pierced a window of the restaurant, spraying lead and glass particles throughout the building's interior. A short time later, the anonymous caller phoned Pitney's home.

In 1971, Pitney founded a nonprofit organization called Stop Poaching and Vandalism (SPAV), an organization of landowners and sportsmen which, Pitney says, has about 10,000 members in Klamath County, where the population is about 56,000.

The members report information on incidents of poaching and vandalism without revealing the names of the informers.

He figures the harassment is directly connected with his work in the organization, but he said the threats have failed to discourage him.

"With thousands of people working for SPAV here in Klamath County, we see the possibility of several hundred thousand people in a statewide program," Pitney said.

"Hopefully, we expect to have 10 or 12 Oregon counties by Feb. 1," he said. "I would like to see it become a nationwide movement."

Pitney says studies show that vandalism in Klamath County decreased by 89.5 per cent from 1972 to 1974, while vandalism increased nationally by 18 per cent during the same period.

"Poaching and vandalism are major concerns of everyone and we are hitting these felons where it hurts," he said. "I want people to join me and fight back."

Encouraged by Carter

Strip mining bill due in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — With encouragement from President-elect Carter, Congress is ready to try again to impose strict, far-reaching standards on surface and strip mining.

Twice in the last session of Congress, strip-mining bills survived the shoves and tugs of mining and environmental factions and were sent to the White House. Twice, President Ford scuttled the effort with vetoes.

Ford agreed with industry that the bills would hamper production, cost jobs, and increase reliance on foreign oil.

This time, supporters of the legislation are cheered by Carter's campaign statements that he would have signed the legislation.

Environmentalists claim that Carter's election denies the mining industry its White House ally. Environmentalists believe the coal industry's strategy this session will be to try to gut the bill in committee and on the floor.

Carl Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, puts it this way: The industry is concerned with obtaining a bill that will increase production. Bagge says the legislation introduced by Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., is nothing more than "a land use bill which has the explicit purpose of discouraging surface mining."

In an interview, Bagge said the industry will try to convince the Carter administration that the best way to increase production is to forget federal action and rely on state regulation.

Environmentalists are still working out their strategy. Louise Dunlop of the Environmental Policy Center, an environmental lobbyist, says they likely will work to strengthen the bill to require more extensive reclamation, and to ban strip mining in western alluvial valleys, often prime agricultural land, and on the steep slopes of eastern mountains.

Over half of U.S. coal production comes from strip mines. Western coal, with its low sulfur content, burns cleaner and therefore is more desirable.

Strip mining involves stripping away the surface layer of earth to bare seams of coal, sometimes 80 feet thick, that can be 500 feet below. The coal then is removed with giant steam shovels.

New Republican Party chief to be selected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nobody has managed to take charge of the Republican search for a new chairman to lead the beaten party, so there's likely to be a scramble for the job on Friday.

It doesn't usually work that way. Such transfers are customarily arranged in advance, but the GOP is short of arrangers just now.

President Ford tried, and his effort to promote his former campaign manager may be enough to give James A. Baker III the edge in a crowded field to succeed Mary Louise Smith. But Ford's persuasive power at this point is almost as limited as his lease on the White House.

Ford's initial undertakings as titular head of the GOP have not been notably successful. Twice in a month he convened White House conferences with Ronald Reagan, Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally to talk about the future of the Republican party.

They didn't produce much, and they adjourned with no agreement on a new chairman. They said they hadn't sought one and weren't trying to play kingmaker anyhow.

Nonetheless, Ford put in his pitch for Baker, and Rockefeller backed him. Their clout was rendered suspect when northeastern Republican leaders promptly refused to endorse anybody, despite the efforts of Rockefeller's political lieutenants to line them up for Baker.

Reagan wants the chairmanship to go to Richard Richards, the Utah Republican chairman. But Reagan has not actively intervened in the contest for the chairmanship.

Neither has Connally, although he is said to have assured Baker of his personal support.

While they settled nothing, the big four's sessions at the White House irked two leading congressional Republicans, who figured they had credentials that warranted a place at any GOP conference table.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, RAriz., angrily declared that he was through raising money for Republican organizations.

Goldwater said he'd been excluded once too often, and acidly noted that Ford's invitees included one brand new Republican and two who had never been nominated to national office. Connally was still a Democrat when Goldwater headed the GOP ticket in 1964.

Furthermore, soon after the election, Goldwater went to see Ford and suggested the party's senior figures get together to talk about the future.

"You'll be hearing from me," Ford is said to have told Goldwater as he left that meeting. He didn't.

Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona, the House Republican leader, was annoyed, too. But he also was described as amused, and told associates the four-man meetings were a naive exercise.

Rhodes said party policy is going to be decided on Capitol Hill from now on. He said the party needs no more spokesmen, and should install a national chairman schooled in the nuts-and-bolts phase of politics.

He also told GOP leaders that any future chairman who tries to instruct him on matters of policy is going to leave the Capitol with his head in his hands.

What's going on around here

Classes in Claremont

Classes ranging from yoga to Irish step dancing and quilting will start this week in Claremont.

The Community Services Department is sponsoring the classes.

Yoga instruction will began Monday morning, with stained glass techniques Monday evening.

Ballroom dancing, bridge instruction for beginners and intermediates, and ceramics for adults will start today.

Belly dancing, cake decorating for teens and adults, ceramics for adults, and yoga in the evening will commence Wednesday.

Baton, ceramics for children, Irish step dancing, quilting and patchwork will start Thursday.

Additional information regarding times, locations, and fees for classes may be obtained by phoning 624-4531.

First aid, emergency course

The Claremont Red Cross will offer an advanced first aid and emergency course Monday, from 7 to 10 p.m. at the chapter house, 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

The class will be held each Monday through April 25. Saturday sessions will be held March 5, 19, and April 2.

Cardiopulmonary resuscitation will also be covered. Registration and additional information may be obtained by phoning 624-0074.

Claremont adult school

Registration for the Claremont school district's adult school spring courses will be held at Claremont High Jan. 24 and 25 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and from 7 to 9 p.m.

The school will continue its personalized high school diploma program the next semester. A counseling appointment may be arranged by phoning 624-6402.

In addition to most courses offered in the past are the following new courses: field ecology, law for the layman, speech communication for business and personal use, contemporary weaving and fiber techniques, stained glass, advanced investment strategies, cardiopulmonary resusciation, exploration of assertiveness training, leadership training, nutrition and weight control, and Morse Code and theory for the novice class license.

S.D. Youth Service Awards

The San Dimas City Council plans to announce the winners of the city's first annual Youth Service Awards for outstanding service to youths in the community at tonight's meeting.

Awards will be given in group, professional, and volunteer categories.

The San Dimas Juvenile Justice Commission, a citizen advisory group to the City Council, originated the idea to recognize outstanding service to the community. Members have been studying nominations since November and have made their recommendations to the council.

Commission members have expressed pleasure at the response from the community that has been received in helping to determine the winners of the award and believe the award will become a prestigious annual affair.

Guest speaker

The Mt. Baldy Apartment Association will meet at the Claremont library Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The guest speaker will be John McCallum, who teaches accounting and taxation at Chaffey College. He will discuss recent changes in tax regulations.

20th birthday

The Pomona Valley Fleet Reserve Association, Branch 211, in Chino will celebrate it's 20th birthday on Wednesday at 8 p.m. when they hold their regular meeting.

First President Shipmate Harold Edic of Pomona is urging all of the original shipmates to attend.

The meeting will be held at the American Legion Hall, 13130 Central Ave. in Chino. The Ladies Auxiliary Fleet Reserve Association, Unit 211, will be holding its meeting at the same time but in a different room.

Shipmate Robert Osoling of Chino will explain the new recruiting drive campaign, which will admit all recruiters into an exclusive club called "The Hashmark Club."

Branch members will serve birthday cake and other refreshments.

Fishing contest

The Cucamonga-Guasti Regional Park in Ontario is sponsoring its third annual fish derby.

The month-long contest will run through Feb. 6. Categories for the competition are heaviest single fish to smallest single fish. The contest is not limited to trout, but will also include carp and catfish. Fishing tackle and other prizes will be awarded to all first place winners.

Trout fishing permits for adults and juniors are available at the park. Every adult must also have a valid California fishing license, and each fisherman will be limited to a five-pound trout take.

A $1 admission fee for automobiles on weekends and 50-cent fee on weekdays, plus a 10-cent pedestrian fee will be charged.

Adult school registration

Registration for the Chaffey District Adult School second semester classes began Monday in the adult school office on the Chaffey High School campus in Ontario.

Office hours are from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. and 6:30 to 9:00 p.m., Monday through Thursday and 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Friday. For additional information, call the adult school office at 983-2010.

The classes will begin Jan. 31 and are available to all adults of the West End, regardless of educational background. The programs are designed to enable all students in the area to complete work toward a high school diploma, to acquire entry-level job, for job advancement or to enrich their lives in the creative areas. There is no tuition charge for any of the classes, but the student must purchase textbooks if needed and pay for materials and supplies as needed in the class.

Veterans are encouraged to complete high school requirements under the G.I. Bill. Attendance of four nights per week qualifies a veteran for full benefits.

A wide variety of classes will be offered at 25 locations in the district. Classes in Montclair are co-sponsored with the Montclair Recreation Department. All students are urged to register early to insure enrollment because class size is limited.

Hobby Circle

The Hobby Circle, general interest group for learning about different types of hobbies and arts and crafts, will resume meeting after a holiday recess, every Tuesday and Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Upland Public Library.

A demonstration on making decoration tile flower pots will be the topic for Ruth Hastings on Wednesday. Marjorie Wilson will discuss "A Beginning Decoupage Project," on Jan. 18-19.

There is no charge or membership requirements for Hobby Circle meetings. Those interested in sharing their hobbies or wishing more information may contact Billie Thompson at the Upland library, 982-1561.

Candy sale

Sacred Heart school in Pomona is sponsoring a candy drive. It will last for two weeks. Proceeds will benefit the school athletic program.
